ALAMEDA CO. HAS 344,127 POPULATION

Piedmont Is Accredited With 4282 Citizens; Emeryville, 2390; Albany, 2461; Oakland Figures Previously Given

Census Returns Show Growth of 97,996 for Territory in Decade; Only 21,851 Live in the Rural Districts

Alameda county's population is 344,127, or 97,996 greater than in 1910. Ten Alameda county cities total 322,376.

Census figures today give:

Piedmont 4282.
Hayward 3487.
Emeryville 2390.
Albany 2461.
Pleasanton 931.

The population of other cities as previously announced are:

Oakland, 216,361; Berkeley, 55,886; Alameda, 28,395; San Leandro, 5706; and Livermore, 1916.

Two features stand out in the Alameda county figures. One is the fact that the rural population, amounting to 21,851, is but a small percentage of the total. The other fact since the population based on the school attendance would have been 440,000, the percentage of youngsters who go to school in this county is very high in proportion to the number of inhabitants.

INCREASE DISTRIBUTED QUITE UNIFORM

The county's increase in population was 28.8 per cent, marking it the most rapid growth of any county in the state. The increase has been fairly evenly divided among the various communities.

The census bureau also announced the following 1920 population figures: Monterey Park, 4108; San Luis Obispo, 3825; The Dalles, Oregon, 3597; and the city of Alameda county's population are very close to the 1910 figures, which placed them in advance at 340,000.

Of the 1920 population figures, including the East Bay cities named above and San Francisco, with 597,000 population, now have approximately 850,000 people covering an area less than that of Los Angeles.

The increase in population in Alameda county is due wholly to a substantial industrial growth. In none of the towns or cities have there been any large manufacturing plants. Oakland in particular has shown a big increase in population because of the large number of plants, employing thousands of men, which have located here in the last ten years.

Oakland's percentage of gain was slightly more than the gain throughout the county, being 44.1 per cent against 28.8. At the same time, Oakland is three times as large as it was twenty years ago and 162 times larger than in 1880.

Convention Summary

The convention was called to order at 11:29.

Nominating speeches are begun, with possibility of the session lasting until late tonight.

Bryan says he will carry fight for dry plank to floor of convention.

The platform committee resumed its work again after a session until after midnight.

Reports from Chicago say the "Committee of Forty-eight" is preparing to offer Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, whose credentials as a delegate were rejected, an opportunity to head a third party.

Mrs. George Bass, women's leader, under attack, given unanimous vote indicating confidence at women's caucus.

Wilson's League of Nations plank agreed on by resolutions committee.

Japanese Fear End of Foothold in California

If Agitation Is Not Checked Interests Are Doomed, Experts Forecast

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

TOKYO, June 30.—The recurrence of anti-Japanese agitation in California is attracting widespread attention in Japan.

The national convention of Chambers of Commerce has adopted a resolution declaring that any agitation in assuming grave proportions and expressing the fear that if it is left unchecked the interests of Japan in California, the result of years of toil and labor, will be doomed.

"This is regrettable for American-Japanese amity," the resolution says. "We must arouse public opinion, raise the voice of justice against the anti-Japanese movement and seek permanent solutions of the questions involved."

The resolution requests the appointment of a committee of 25, to include members of the Diet, to discuss defensive ways and means.

Virtually all the newspapers agree in expressing the belief that the American people themselves will prevent any injustice. The Yorucho Chobo, on the other hand, attacks the United States for its "Bismarck and Bernardi" and says it thinks it quite impossible to hope for the friendship of America. The newspaper seizes the opportunity to attack American missionaries, some of whom, it charges, are bent on disturbing the peace of Korea.

Casement's Sister Raps Irish Tactics

BY UNITED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Tactics by Irish sympathizers before the platform committee of the Democratic national convention yesterday were condemned today by Mrs. Agnes Newman, sister of Sir Roger Casement, widow of George Palmer, formerly connected with the Pacific Coast Glass Works of San Francisco, was filed today for probate by Judge L. R. Weinmann. Mrs. Palmer died on June 24.

"Tactics of that sort hurt the cause of Irish freedom more than anything else," said Mrs. Newman, who is a leader in the fight for recognition of the "Irish Republic."

Mrs. Newman will become an American citizen next season, having already qualified for first papers, she said.

"I have just arrived to help in the fight being made by President De Valera, and I am confident that the Democratic party will give us recognition," she declared.

Republicans Plan Campaign as Appeal to Substitute Party Government for Personal Control, Harding Declares

Observe Law and Prosperity Will Follow, Coolidge Says, After Candidates Confer With Hays as to Course

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The Republican Presidential campaign will be based "on an appeal to restore party government as a constitutional substitute for personal government," Senator Harding, the party Presidential candidate, announced today after a conference with Calvin Coolidge, his running mate, and National Chairman Will H. Hays.

At the same time Governor Coolidge, in a formal statement, declared that there must be a "return of public opinion toward a self-control by the people, toward a great and over-mastering desire to observe the law."

Campaign plans were discussed at the conference, the meeting being the first between the candidates since their nomination. It lasted most of the day.

The conference began at a breakfast in Senator Harding's home and was continued at the Senator's office at the capitol.

Governor Coolidge was understood to have announced that he desired to do anything within his power to aid in the restoration of party government.

Senator Harding's statement read: "Governor Coolidge breakfasted with me this morning and we have agreed that we will base the campaign on an appeal to restore party government as a constitutional substitute for personal government. The governor and I have each served as lieutenant-governor in our states and we both have learned from experience how possible it is for a section of a state to be a help or a hindrance to the nation. I think the Vice-President should be more than a mere substitute in waiting."

In re-establishing coordination between the executive officers and the Senate, the Vice-President can and ought to play a big part. Coolidge has been telling Governor Harding how much I wish him to be a helpful part of a Republican administration. The country needs the counsel and becoming participation in the government of such men as Governor Coolidge.

Oakman Coolidge's statement follows:

"I am here to cooperate with my associate. We have many problems ahead. Many men have been elected to the Senate, and the laws; not their enforcement, mind you. I am not now speaking of that. Of course the laws must be enforced. That is far from enough."

There must be a return of public opinion toward a self-control by the people, toward a great and over-mastering desire to observe the law. When that is done, the other problems will fall away; there will be peace, prosperity and progress.

Governor Coolidge and Hays attended the regular daily conference of Senator Harding with the newspaper correspondents. Senator Harding's attention was called to a statement attributed to Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania opposing the proposed plan for a "front porch" campaign.

It was not surprising that there should be a difference of methods of campaigning," said Senator Harding.

While recognizing the merits of Senator Penrose's proposal for a moderate campaign trip, the Presidential candidate said the country was calling for deliberate utterance and for this reason the front porch campaign proposition appeals to me.

During the day Senator Harding devoted some time to the preparation of a coming speech of acceptance, discussing financial and business conditions with George M. Reynolds, a Chicago banker.

PALMER IS HAILED FOR 35 MINUTES

Democratic Convention in Big Outburst Over First of the "Big 3" Candidates to Be Placed in Nomination Race

Names of Owen, Gerard, Hitchcock and Cummings Also Presented in 3-Hour Session; Cox Boosters Cheer Much

BULLETIN.

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Senator Owen, Attorney General Palmer, Senator Hitchcock, former Ambassador Gerard and Chairman Cummings were placed in nomination before the Democratic convention during the first three hours of its session today. The nomination of Palmer was accompanied by the first prolonged demonstration of the convention. It ran 35 minutes with delegates from Pennsylvania and Georgia leading the crowd.

By HUGH BAILEY, United Press Staff Correspondent.

AUDITORIUM, San Francisco, June 30.—Five of seventeen men to be presented to the Democratic national convention had been nominated at 1 o'clock this afternoon. They were those of Senator Robert Owen, of Oklahoma, James W. Gerard, of New York, Homer S. Cummings, national chairman; Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, and A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney general.

Functioned by outbursts of cheering or more modified applause, the nominating and seconding speeches were progressing rapidly.

In a session that began at 11:15 a.m. and continued until 2:30 p.m., following a determined effort to stand the convention into a demonstration for Governor Cox of Ohio. The demonstration was in full swing when the delegates and voters in the gallery dominated the situation with yells and a song about "We'll nominate Cox or know the reason why."

THIRING STILLED BY OPENING PRAYER.

Rabbi Meyer delivered the invocation, while the crowd stood. The intense throng, one moment surging with the yells and cheering for Cox, Palmer, McAdoo and the other candidates, was instantly silenced as the Rabbi began praying. Rabbi Meyer read his prayer in a deep resonant voice, easily heard in the furthestmost galleries.

When the last words of the invocation died, the band and the organ boomed forth with the national anthem and the delegates and voters stood quietly as the first verse was concluded. On the second hundreds joined in the chorus.

Delegate King of Utah was recognized by the chair. He explained that when resolutions for seating of delegates were presented yesterday the canal zone was omitted in the official appointment of delegates for the next convention. He offered a resolution correcting the error. It was adopted.

CALLS FOR STATUTES TO NAME CANDIDATES.

Chairman Robinson then called for nomination of delegates for the next convention. He offered a resolution that the call of states was begun. Alabama passed and Arizona yielded to Oklahoma.

Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma was the first official candidate to be presented to the convention. D. H. Hayden-Linbaugh of Muskogee, Okla., delivered the speech that formally placed his name in the lists.

Linbaugh was well received by the floor, which joined the galleries in a hearty round of handclapping when the speaker was presented by Chairman Robinson.

Linbaugh, a young man with humorous wrinkles in his face, clad in a business suit, made a straightaway, businesslike address. His gestures were few and informal, an occasional thump of fist on the reading stand or shaking of that fist on high emphasized his points.

First mention of Owen's name provoked a loud cheer from the Oklahoma delegates, who leaped to their feet and waved their hats.

EMBARRASSED BUT HE MAKES GOOD.

Linbaugh was clearly embarrassed when the glare of the columns in the gallery were turned squarely in his face and the movie men squatted behind their cameras in the main aisle began grinding their cranks. He hesitated, flushed a little and after a smile, went on with his speech.

Linbaugh concluded speaking at 11:57. The Oklahoma delegation leaped to its feet, waving hats and cheering. He explained that he was in which a few of the Washington delegation joined, Chairman Robinson pounded for order and Oklahoma took their seats. Governor Brough of Arkansas mounted the rostrum to second Owen's nomination. He declared that Arkansas, the only state mentioned in the Bible, wanted Owen for president.

"The Bible says that Noah looked out of the ark and saw," declared Brough.

The quip got shouts of laughter.

"MR. CHAIRMAN, I am here today to present to this convention the name of—"

AUDITORIUM, San Francisco, June 30.—Speeches placing in nomination the names of prominent party leaders as presidential hopes were delivered to the Democratic convention today as follows:

ROBERT L. OWEN. Placed in nomination by D. Haden Linbaugh of Muskogee, Okla.

Terming him a friend of business interests, laboring men, women, voters, farmers and all the lovers of popular government, D. Haden Linbaugh of Muskogee today placed Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma in nomination for President. He referred to the fact that he had been the author of the child labor law and an active supporter of all progressive labor legislation.

"We offer you a man," he said, "who in three great campaigns has shown himself capable of attracting the support of progressive men and women who are not affiliated with the Democratic party."

"We present you a man who has proven beyond doubt his attachment and fidelity to sound principles of government, and who has for years strenuously and successfully labored to protect the peace, happiness and prosperity of our people by making our government, and all of its agencies, truly responsive to the people's will."

JAMES W. GERARD. Placed in nomination by U. S. G. Cherry of Sioux Falls, S. D.

Blending for the nomination of a "safe and sane man," U. S. G. Cherry of Sioux Falls, S. D., today placed James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, in nomination.

He said in part:

"Old political issues are no more. New problems and purposes issuing out of the new order of things are at hand. Our party, with more than six score years of achievement, written in its record, and none more illustrious than the seven year covered by the administrations of President Wilson, is looking to the future; it is courageously meeting every problem of the present. It clearly sees and understands the duty of the hour. It has already decided to draw up and state the declaration of its aims and purposes. Its platform does not equivocate. It does not dodge any vital issue, is not afraid, does not compromise."

HOMER S. CUMMINGS. Placed in nomination by John F. Crosby, Assistant Attorney General of the United States.

Declaring that Homer Cummings "stands four square" with President Wilson, John F. Crosby, assistant attorney general of the United States, today placed Cummings in nomination for president.

He said in part:

"I have confidence to the world that he has not forgotten. Let me nominate a man who through the power of our country shall at last fulfill Isaiah's ancient prophecy: 'A nation shall not lift up sword against a nation, neither shall they learn war any longer.'"

"Connecticut offers you such a man today, a figure that rises out of the tumult of changing desires as the one upon whom all the factions of democracy can most happily and harmoniously unite. He is a man who in the last days of the campaign will not lift up sword against a nation, neither shall they learn war any longer."

He is a man who in the last days of the campaign will not lift up sword against a nation, neither shall they learn war any longer."

GILBERT M. HITCHCOCK. Placed in nomination by A. C. Shallenberger of Nebraska.

The name of the United States Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska was placed before the convention as a candidate for nomination by A. C. Shallenberger in a speech in which he said in part:

"Under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson America has experienced a period of prosperity and national glory such as she has never known before and the Democratic party stands at the height of its glory. We have no other political asset."

"That administration waged a world war and won it gloriously, and then the President signed the peace treaty at Paris America had stepped into the leadership of the world."

"The man who occupies the presidency for the next four years must face a tremendous task, but our man is big enough for the job. Whether as congressman, United States senator or as publisher of a great newspaper, he has always made good. He is a man who has courage, he has experience."

"I am authorized by the Democrats of Nebraska to present as our candidate Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska."

A. MITCHELL PALMER. Placed in nomination by John H. Bigelow of Hazelton, Pa.

Hailing him as a "New Navarre," his lance that of law and his shield of justice, John H. Bigelow of Hazelton, Pa., placed Attorney General Mitchell A. Palmer in nomination for President. Palmer, he declared, first as congressman, then as custodian of alien property and now as the nation's chief prosecutor, has stood solidly against foes of the government.

League of Nations Plank Is Adopted Without Dotting of "I" or Crossing of a "T" By the Steering Committee

Straddling of Prohibition Is Reported as Program, With Plan to Squelch Nebraskan on Floor of Auditorium

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—A League of Nations plank has been decided upon, just as Woodrow Wilson wants it, without the dotting of a "t" or the crossing of a "t" by the steering committee on platform. As forecast it follows almost identically the lines of the Virginia platform previously approved by President Wilson.

A careful count of the full committee and a survey of the convention made the committeemen confident that William J. Bryan could not get his prohibition plank into the platform. The agreement was in such form, they said, that it was not probable that their work would be laid before the full committee on resolutions late this afternoon.

Bryan on his part announced that he would take his fight to the floor of the convention.

POMERENE ATTEMPTS TO SAND MACHINE.

Senator Pomerene of Ohio, who voted for the Lodge reservations, attempted to introduce a plank as follows:

"We vote adoption of the peace treaty without reservations which would impair its integrity. We believe this is the best and most practical way to restore peace. But if differences of opinion exist as to the form or substance of the reservations proposed as to prevent such ratification, then we demand that they be so harmonized that the treaty be ratified without unnecessary delay. This is a solemn duty we owe the country and humanity."

Pomerene's plank expresses the view of that group of Democrats who, while supporting the president, deem ratification at once the essential thing.

Through Senator Walsh Mrs. Robert Armstrong Dean, president of the California Federation of Housewives' League, submitted to the committee a plank against profiteering. It provided:

Additional legislation to make the law more effective.

Prevention of speculation and manipulation of footstuffs.

Control of the warehouse system.

COMMITTEE RETIRES FOR FURTHER WORK.

After members of the full committee had submitted a number of planks, the sub-committee retired to the "Glass" room in a hotel to continue in seclusion its work on the platform. Glass said that the door was closed to submission of further plank suggestions and that from now on the sub-committee would devote all its time to whipping the platform into shape.

It was stated that the committee had taken no vote on the question of a wet plank, but had decided to give it up to the whole committee, but it was declared that the sub-committee did discuss Bryan's proposed dry plank and the consensus was to ignore it although no vote was taken.

Here is the Wilsonian draft of the plank on the League of Nations, submitted by Senator Carter Glass:

"The Democratic party favors a League of Nations as the surest, if not the only practical means of maintaining the permanent peace of the world and terminating the insufferable burden of great military and naval establishments."

"It was for this that America broke away from traditional isolation and spent her blood and treasure to crush a colossal scheme of conquest."

"It was upon this basis that the president of the United States, in pre-arrangement with our allies consented to a cessation of hostilities against the party known as Germany and upon this basis that the armistice was granted and a treaty of peace was negotiated."

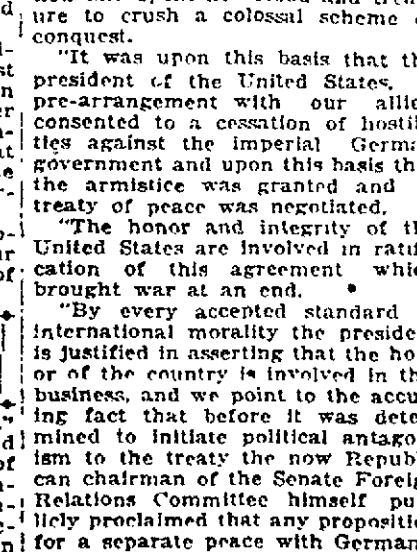

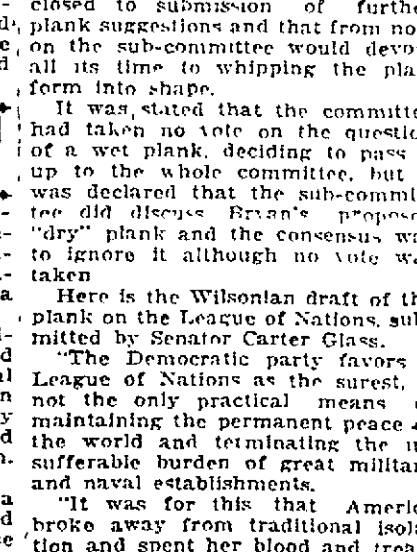

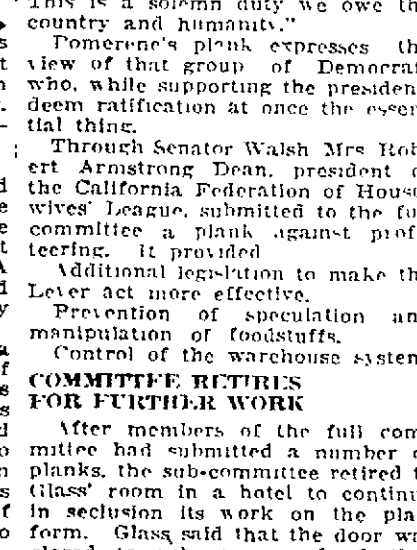

"The honor and integrity of the United States are involved in ratification of this agreement, which brought war to an end."

"By every accepted standard of international morality the president is justified in asserting that the honor of the country is involved in this business, and we point to the accusing fact that before it was determined to initiate political antagonism to the treaty the now Republican chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee himself publicly proclaimed that any proposition for a separate peace with Germany, such as he and his party associates attempted to force in the Knox resolution, would make us guilty of the blackest crime."

"The Knox substitute for the Versailles treaty was passed by the Re-

BERKELEY GETS ROBBER SUSPECT

Clifford Titus, alias Robert Bray, the "telephone burglar" suspect, was taken to Berkeley this morning after the Oakland police failed to connect him with any burglaries within their jurisdiction.

Titus confessed to robbing two homes in Piedmont and the Duncan McDuffie home on Tunnel road, Berkeley.

According to his statement to Inspectors Harry Orbell and John Mulhern this morning, he entered the homes in daylight and relied on his well-dressed and respectable appearance to allay suspicion. His method was to ring the bells to ascertain whether or not the family was home, and if no one answered, he would enter the house by means of a pass-key or a small "lummy."

After each "job" Titus would call his victims on the telephone and startle them by the announcement that he was the burglar who robbed their homes.

This morning Titus confessed to the Oakland police that he had followed the same tactics in Los Angeles; that upon one occasion he was arrested in the south on a burglary charge, but after two months in jail beat the case in court and regained his liberty.

The police recovered jewelry from Titus which he had stolen from the home of Mrs. George Townsend, 5703 Victoria avenue, Los Angeles. The total amount of jewelry recovered by the Oakland police from the telephone burglar is more than $5000.

THREE MILLIONS OFFER MADE FOR LEVIATHAN

WASHINGTON, June 30.—An offer of $3,000,000 for the giant liner Leviathan and $300,000 for the liner De Kalb were the only ones that had been received when sealed bids on these two former German liners were opened today at the Shipping Board.

The U. S. Mail Steamship Company made the offer for the Leviathan upon condition that the board loan $6,000,000 to the company to be applied to reconditioning the vessel and furnish free of charge a pier for the liner during the reconditioning work. Under the company's proposal the loan would pay 5 per cent interest. The American Ship and Commerce Company bid for the De Kalb, which it would operate in its passenger service to be inaugurated between the U. S. and Germany.

The board reserved decision on the offers.

CYCLIST GUILTY OF AID. NEGLECT

Lloyd Gupitil, 708 South Elmhurst avenue, the motorcyclist who ran down and broke the leg of Milo King, a 3-year-old child, a month ago and then fled after depositing the boy on the porch of his home, was found guilty this morning by Judge George Samuels on a charge of failing to render proper aid to the victim of an accident.

Gupitil denied that he had placed the child in a garbage can which he was accused of doing at the time of the accident.

Arguing that the charge of failing to render proper aid had not been substantiated in court and pointing out the fact that Gupitil had reimbursed the family for doctor bills paid out, Prosecuting Attorney William J. Hennessy made a motion for the dismissal of the case.

Judge Samuels denied the motion and found the defendant guilty as charged. Sentence was deferred until July 29.

SUIT ALLEGES WILL IS HIDDEN

Charges that E. D. Bothwell or Mrs. Mary Andrews, beneficiaries under the will of Mrs. Lida E. Britton, or their servants or employees, have secreted and kept from the court the real will, are contained in the petition of Mrs. Lydia F. Meyer for letters of administration on the estate of Mrs. Britton, which has been granted by Superior Judge E. C. Robinson, who has exacted a bond of $40,000.

Mrs. Britton died in Oakland June 1 last, leaving an estate, the petition states, of more than $25,000. Besides apartments at Eleventh and Castro streets there are Liberty bonds, jewelry, railway stock, oil stock and money in bank. Mrs. Meyer is a step-daughter of the deceased. She says the will already presented to the court, dated May 27, 1920, and in which Bothwell is named residuary legatee and Mrs. Andrews is given $2000, is only a purported will, the real one, favoring Mrs. Meyer, being a holographic one dated March 31, 1920. Mrs. Meyer demands that this will be produced. Judge Robinson has ordered that this be done.

Widow Given $500 Monthly Allowance

Superior Judge E. C. Robinson has granted a family allowance of $500 a month to Mrs. Wilhelmina Griffin, widow of Albert Griffin, late resident of Alameda and formerly identified with interests in Fresno. Griffin started the first street car system in Fresno and was concerned in many of its leading enterprises. His estate was appraised at $201,000. Donald H. Hynes, representing Mrs. Griffin, asked for an allowance of $1000 a month for her, saying the property easily would provide that amount, but Judge Robinson decided that half that sum would be sufficient.

Flyers Take Pictures of Convention North

H. C. Durant and C. V. Pickup yesterday flew from Oakland to Camp Lewis, Washington, in sixteen hours, carrying pictures of the opening of the Democratic convention. Leaving Durant field at 4 a. m., the plane J. I. L. No. 6 winged its way northward through darkness and fog and reached Camp Lewis at 8:30 o'clock last night, where it was forced to land on account of darkness. While attempting a trial hop-off at the Alhambra Meadows, the plane was caught in a wind pocket and almost wrecked, necessitating a change in the lower wings.

MEXICO FREES U. S. AVIATOR; TO FILE PROTEST

MEXICO CITY, June 30.—Lieutenant Stanley M. Ames of Walpole, Mass., commander of the Ninth aero squadron of the United States army at Kelly Field, San Antonio, who landed on Mexican soil near Matamoros on Sunday, has been released by the Mexican military authorities at Matamoros, according to a despatch from that city to the war ministry today.

The foreign office is preparing to make representations to Washington regarding the landing of American airmen on Mexican soil.

DOOLING SCOLDS U. S. DRY AGENTS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—A warning against the violation of the constitutional rights of the people by the federal prohibition enforcement officers was sounded by Federal Judge Maurice T. Dooling in the case of Joseph Piccoli of San Mateo, who pleaded guilty to having illicit liquor in the kitchen of his home.

S. S. Estell, prohibition enforcement officer, and the chief of police of San Mateo entered the Piccoli kitchen without a search warrant, and it was this act which caused the judge to rebuke Estell. He said in part:

"Inasmuch as this defendant has pleaded guilty to possession, I shall fine him $25, but I want to say that the sooner you officers learn that you cannot unlawfully enforce the law the better for you. If you cannot properly enforce the law, you are going to get yourselves into trouble."

Wife Is Unbalanced; Marriage Annulled

Judge T. W. Harris of the Superior Court has ordered an annulment of the marriage of Ernest A. and Gertrude S. Fleck on the ground that Mrs. Fleck was mentally incompetent when the marriage took place, October 19, 1914. They separated five days later.

Fleck testified that he consented to the marriage at the instance of his wife's brother, who told him he had better take the girl at once if he expected to get her. He said his wife was 19 years old, but had the mind of a child of seven. The brother is M. P. Silva of San Lorenzo. Mrs. Fleck is now an inmate of Glen Ellen home.

GASOLINE EXPORT BLAME IS DENIED

Denial that its present gasoline scarcity is due to a gasoline shortage is made in a statement issued by the Standard Oil Company. The statement declares the company does not export gasoline but sells for export, the market prices in San Francisco and that its imports from Mexico to supply the demand, especially in the west, will be practically twice as great as the amounts sold for exports.

Continuing it is stated that the exports during the last three years have steadily declined until the amount to be sent out of this country this year is less than one-third of what it was in 1915.

Explaining the reduced exports, the report says:

"The oil fields of California produced such quantities over and above the domestic demand that existed at that time, which was before the great development of automotive vehicles and gasoline-using machines, that there was considerable supply available for foreign sale."

"The situation today is completely the reverse. The California crude oil supply is insufficient to meet domestic demands and not only is there a market for everything that California can produce, but in order to supply fields formerly dependent upon supplies of gasoline formerly furnished by California—notably Eastern Washington and Oregon, Nevada and Arizona, this company has gone into Eastern fields and to Mexico and there made purchases of gasoline to meet the demands of the public."

LAUGHTS AT DEATH; KILLED IN PLUNGE

SAN JOSE, June 30.—If you boys hear of anybody going over the grade to their death out on these roads you can bet it is not me. These accidents must be due only to carelessness."

The speaker was A. J. Hodges, barber of Monterey, and he was addressing a gathering of men in the shop and in other chairs in his place. Less than 24 hours ago Hodges was lying dead at the foot of a grade in the Carmel valley, where his machine had tipped over. His wife was saved probably from a similar fate when her clothing caught in a clump of brush at the edge of the road, leaving her suspended over the brink. These facts were brought out at the inquest yesterday when a formal verdict was returned by the jury.

Hodges had engaged in the barber business in Monterey since 1915.

Federal Engineers to Study State Highway

United States engineers, representing the bureau of public roads of the Department of Agriculture, will make a survey of California highway construction, beginning with work which started many years ago and coming down to date.

The federal engineers were asked for by the California Highway Commission under the new federal states to the government aid in highway work. The engineers, whose names have not yet been given out, aided by economists, will make a complete study and compile a report on the condition of state highways and make recommendations for future construction.

William H. Noy Will Admitted to Probate

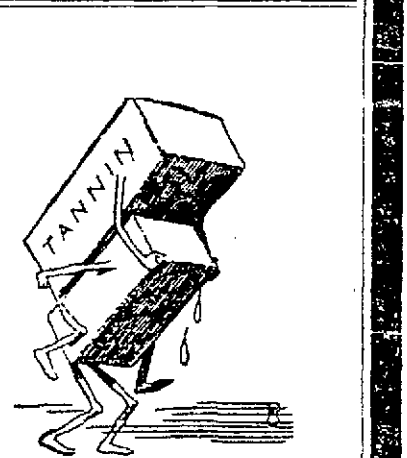

Judge E. C. Robinson of the Superior Court has admitted to probate the will of William H. Noy, who died May 27, last, and who was a councilman of Alameda at the time of his death and formerly mayor of that city.

The will leaves three pieces of residential property, including the family home at 1535 Bay street, Alameda, to a daughter, Mrs. Lavina Dunne, and after several minor bequests gives the remainder of the property to a son, Richard H. Noy. The latter and Judge A. F. St. Sure are made executors without bonds. The estate is said to be worth about $30,000.

HOTEL FIREBUG CONFESSES.

OAKTON, June 29.—James Hokbo of Clifton, N. J., a deserter from the navy, today confessed to the police that he set four early morning hotel fires which have endangered thousands of lives and caused a reign of terror among hotel guests here in the last week.

Hokbo, alias Harrison, said he became the victim of "voices" after nightfall and set fires while under a spell.

War Veteran Killed; Woman Is Arrested

FRESNO, June 30. — Charles Stamper, an overseas soldier who was wounded three times in action, died here from a shotgun wound received at the hands of Mrs. Tillie Riefenstein of Patterson, according to his dying statement and to the police account of the shooting. Mrs. Riefenstein was held in connection with the death. The police said she made a statement in which she said she was actuated by conditions resulting from her relations with the dead man.

Lowden Refuses to Seek Second Term

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 30. — Governor Lowden will not be a candidate for re-election, it is announced, following a conference of party chiefs with him. The announcement said Governor Lowden would support Lieutenant-Governor John G. Oglesby for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Governor Lowden's statement was in part as follows: "I have always had a strong conviction regarding a second term for a chief executive office. While I served in Congress, in each session I served, I introduced a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which should restrict the President to one term. The same principle applies to the governorship."

Charge Is Dropped Against Teacher

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30. — Request that the charges be dismissed against Mrs. Louise Q. Lyle, kindergarten teacher, who had burned the wrist of 4-year-old Carroll Cooper with a heated fork as a punishment, was filed today by Mr. and Mrs. Marion Cooper. The Coopers had Mrs. Lyle arrested when the little boy told the story of his punishment. The school teacher declared that she had merely touched the end of the heated fork to the boy's wrist to teach him the danger of playing with fire. In their statement Mr. and Mrs. Cooper said today that Mrs. Lyle has suffered enough and that her apology has satisfied them.

Couple Weds Among Sweet Scented Buds

Surprising their many friends in the college set and about the bay, Mrs. Dorothy E. Davis and Mr. Charles E. Requa were quietly married Monday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Requa, 2115 West 5th St. The service was read by Rev. Father Lantry, O'Neill, pastor of Newman Hall, University of California. The ceremony which was at 9 p. m. was followed by a wedding supper and informal reception. The bride's gown was of white georgette crepe, trimmed in clusters of orange blossoms, which adorned the bridal veil. Orchids and lilies of the valley made up the shower bouquet.

CONVENTION IS TRIBUNE-T & D. FILM THEME

Others in the groups include Senator Owen and many of the women who are playing a foremost part in national politics. The warships in the bay are included in the pictures. Events of local interest include pictures of Eddie Rickenbacker, the famous war "Ace," preparing for his sensational flights at Durant field.

The price of nitrate of soda has also increased considerably.

The prosperity of this industry means for Chile solid financial situation of the government; abundance of work for laborers and general welfare of the country. The revenue experienced last year, when there was no market for nitrate.

An
O. HENRY
Story a Day

The Dog and the Playlet

Copyright, 1920, Page & Co., published by special arrangement with the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

Usually it is a cold day in July when you can stroll on Broadway in that month and get a story out of the drama. I found one a few breathless, paralyzing days ago, and it seems to decide a serious question in art.

There was not a soul left in the city except Hollis and I—and two of three million sun-worshippers who remained at desks and counters. The black coffee had to be served, like mountain, and had already begun to draw for additional funds. Every evening Hollis and I prowled about the deserted town searching for coolness in empty cafes, dining-rooms and playlets.

My revenge was to read to him my own story. It was one insufferable evening when the sun was being hurled back by the heavens by every surcharged brick and stone and inch of iron in the panting town. But with the cunning of the two-legged beasts we had found an oasis where the hoofs of Apollo's steed had not been allowed to strike. Our seats were on an ocean of cool, polished oak; the white linen of fifty deserted tables dimpled like saucers in the artificial breeze; a mile away a waited lin-ered for a "hot-air" balloon.

Out came Miss Loris's photo with the coffee, and I once more praised the elegant noise of the neck, the extremely low-collared mass of heavy hair, and the eyes that followed one, like those in an oil painting.

"She's the greatest ever," said Hollis, with enthusiasm. "Good as Great Northern Preferred, and a disposition built like a watch. One week more and I'll be happy Johnny-on-the-spot.
Old Tom Tolliver, my best college chum, went up there two weeks ago.
He writes me that Loris doesn't talk about anything but me. Oh, I guess Rip Van Winkle didn't have all the good luck."

"Yes, yes," said I, hurriedly, pulling out my typewritten play. "She's no doubt a charming girl. Now, here's that little curtain-raiser you promised to listen to."

"I've been tried on the stage,"
asked Hollis.

"Not exactly," I answered. "I read half of it the other day to a fellow whose brother knows Robert Edson, but he had to catch a train before

"Go on," said Hollis, sliding back in his chair like a good fellow. "I'm no stage artist, but I'll tell you what I think of it from a first row balcony standpoint. I'm a theater bug during the season, and as hard as you like with it. I'll be the dog."

I read my little play lovingly, and there was one scene in it that helieved in greatly. The comedy swiftly developed into a tragedy, and unexpectedly became a farce. Suddenly he became cognizant that his own story was a tragedy, and that who has deceived him from the day of their first meeting. The rapid and mortal duel between them from that moment—she with her magnificent lies and alien charm, winding about him like a serpent, trying to recover her lost ground, he with his man's agony and scorn and lost faith.

"I beg your pardon?" I said as sweetly as I could.

"Come now, don't you know, 'don't be an idiot. You know very well that these days, that sketch went along all right until you rang in the jokes. Cut out that right-arm exercise and the Adam and Eve stunt, and make your own talk as you or I or Bill Jones would."

"I'll admit," said I, earnestly (for my theory was being torn apart),
"that on all ordinary occasions all of us use commonplace language to convey our thoughts. I don't remember that up to the moment when the captain makes his terrible discovery, but after that, the characters in a real life. But I believe that I am right in allowing him lines suitable to the strong and tragic situation into which he falls."

"Tragic, my eye," said my friend, irreverently. "In Shakespeare's days he might have spluttered out some high-sounding nonsense of that sort, because in those days they ordered ham and eggs in blank verse and discharged the cook with an order of 1505."

"It is my opinion," said I, "that great human emotions shake up our vocabulary and leave the words best suited to express them on top. A sudden violent grief or loss or disappointment will bring expressions out of an ordinary man as strong and solemn and dramatic as those used in fiction or on the stage to portray those emotions."

"That's where you fellows are wrong," said Hollis. "If, every-day talk is what goes 'four' in the world, very likely have kicked the cat, it's clear, stirred up a highball, and telephoned for a lawyer, instead of getting off those Robert Manteil pyrotechnics."

"Possibly a little later," I continued. "But just at the time—just as the blow is delivered, if something extraordinary happens, a man in a moment of his modern and practical wisdom, he knows what he's doing."

"Of course," said Hollis, kindly.
"You've got to whoop her up some decent for the stage. The audience expects it. When the villain kidnaps a little Edie you have to make her mother claw some chunks out of the atmosphere, and scream 'he chee-ild, me chee-ild.' What she would actu-

"False, oh, God—false, and Love is a lie, and friendship but the byword of devils!"

ally do would be to call up the police by phone, ring for some strong tea, and get the little darling's photo out ready for the press. When you get your villain in a corner—a stage corner—it's all right for him to clap his hand to his forehead and hiss his remark. This is a conspiracy against me. I refer you to my lawyers."

"I get no consolation," said I, gloomily. "From your concession of an accustomed stage treatment. In my play I fondly hoped that was following life. If people in real life meet great crises in a commonplace way, they should do the same on the stage."

And then we drifted, like two trout, out of our pool pool in the great hotel and began to nibble languidly at the gay flies in the swift current of Broadway. And our question of dramatic art was unsettled.

We nibbled at the flies, and avoided the hooks, as wise trout do; but soon the warmth of Manhattan in summer overcame us. Nine stories up, facing the south, was Hollis's apartment, and we soon stepped from an elevator bound for that cooler haven.
I was familiar in those quarters,
and quickly my play was forgotten,
and I found a subterranean world all about me. A breeze from the bay came in the windows, and the air lighted by the asphalt furnace over which it had passed. Hollis, whispering softly turned over a late-arrived letter or two on his table, and drew around the coolest wicker armchair.

I was just measuring the Vermont carefully when I heard a sound.
Some man's voice roared hoarsely:
"False, oh, God—false, and Love is a lie, and friendship but the byword of devils!"

I looked about quickly. Hollis lay across the table with his head down upon his outstretched arms. And then he looked up at me and laughed in his ordinary manner.

I knew him—he was poking fun at me about my story. And it did seem so unnatural, those swelling words during our quiet gossip, that I half began to believe I had been mistaken—that my theory was wrong.

Hollis raised himself slowly from the table.

"You were right about that theatrical business, old man," he said, quietly, as he tossed a note to me.

I read it.

WHEART and his HUSBAND
by ADELE GARRISON

THE NEWS MRS. DURKEE
BLURTED OUT TO MADGE.

To this end I drew a chair near hers, and sitting down, told her as much of Milly Stockbridge's story as I dared without betraying how intimate was my knowledge of the tragedy and the events leading up to it, then related Alice Holcombe's account of the coroner's inquest.

I tried to make my friend's connection with the affair as sketchy as possible; thought that I had succeeded until after I had finished and my mother-in-law had relaxed somewhat from milky-brotherly sympathy with which she had followed my story, she said caustically:

"If that red-headed friend of yours doesn't look out she'll find herself they call it. She seems to be making an 18-karat idiot of herself. For my part I wouldn't put it past her to have slipped something in the other woman's tea at that. What's the matter?"

I knew my face must have betrayed the inexplicable feeling which had returned to me at the commonplace phrase "use other woman's tea," which my mother-in-law had used. Why should I be haunted at every turn by the memory of Milly Stockbridge's hands reaching out ready for the pockets of tea which I had offered her at the schoolhouse
the last day I had seen her alive?

But not to my mother-in-law could I confide my psychic errors. She looked as lazy, languid, and somehow—neither of us ever knew just how—Alice Holcombe and I managed to pull the Bayview high school pupils through the trying ordeal of "Recitation" (the final examination prescribed by the state board), and to wind up the business of the year in fairly creditable fashion.

Kenneth Stockbridge, behind jail bars, still retained his dogged, incomprehensible silence. From Alice, who, of course, was in a position to know all the gossip of the village, I learned that the principal's uncle—his parents, fortunately, were both dead—had arrived in the village, bringing with him an eminent former graduate of the school, and the uncle was rich, Alice said, and had never treated his nephew decently, but his family pride would not permit him to leave any stone unturned that might prevent a smirch upon the family name. But it was rumored that the eminent legal light had had no better success in getting Kenneth Stockbridge to talk than had the principal's opponents.

TIDYING DAYS
Milly Stockbridge's body had been laid to rest in the village cemetery after a fairly public funeral, which all of the teachers except myself attended. I pleaded a convenient headache and sent a beautiful discuster to lower with my card and Dicky's message. I knew, of course, that I would never return to the Bayview school, but not even I my livelihood had depended upon it.
I could have attended that funeral if I had had the courage I could muster to make the mortal brie call at the home that courtesy demanded.

I shall always look back upon those closing days of school as among the most likable of my life.
I always begrudge every moment of June that I spend indoors, anyway, and when to the discomfort of spending the long, hot summer days in the stuffy schoolrooms was added the unpleasantness of the queer condition surrounding my work and the irritation of Dicky's behavior, I felt that my favorite month had turned anything but a smiling face to me.

Not that I spent much time fretting over Dicky's persistence in his plan of remaining away from home until I should explain to him the emotion he had misinterpreted upon the morning I had stolen down to see the newspaper. In the first year of my marriage, such a decision upon his part would have bowed me to the earth with grief and humiliation. But time has brought me sanity, tinged now and then with whimsical, humorous comprehension of my husband's vagaries—I think marriage, happy marriage, usually brings that blessing to wives, and I was reasonably pleased that Dicky's action was only a stubborn adhering to his position because he had taken it so vehemently, and that in all probability he was as anxious to return home as I was to have him come back.

A POSER FOR MADGE.
And I had a very special and sentimental reason for believing that his return would not be delayed beyond the final week of June. For in that week our little son would celebrate his first birthday anniversary. Dicky, whom little Mrs.
Curtis, with reason, dubs the "daffiest of daddies," had been making plans of sorts of absurd plans for the celebration of the event, which, fortunately for my school work, fell upon a Sunday. I was sure that not even Dicky's stubborn temper would allow him to disobey me upon this day. If it did, I told myself, inconsistently, he could stay away until Junior's birthday anniversary for all I cared.

But the day began to grow dangerously near with no sign from Dicky. My mother-in-law, from the day following Dicky's departure, had preserved absolute silence upon the subject, though I expected an outburst from her at any time.

Little Mrs. Durkee was less discreet. She came over often in the evening since the departure of the Fairfax girls, the delightful visit over, for their New York apartment.

"I'd much better have 'em out here for good," she grumbled one evening when she had tripped across the lawn after supper, a dainty little vision in lavender ruffles. "All doesn't spend one evening in ten home any more, and I'm just possive he's hanging around that girl."

"Which girl?" I asked, mischiev-
ously. "Rita Brown?"

She made a horrified little moue.
"You're just a cat, Madge Graham," she pouted, half-laughing, half-serious. "To bring up that girl's name, it gives me the cold shivers up and down my spine whenever I think of her. No, thank goodness, Alice's cured in that direction, but I'm afraid—"

"He's in love with the physician who cured him," I suggested slyly.
"That's just it," she retorted petulantly. "He's sitting around in Lella Fairfax's pocket the whole blessed time. Of course, she's a dear—I admit that—I haven't one bit of objection to her—mad, I'm very fond of her, and if Alice has to marry, I'd rather it would be she than any one else. But I don't want him to leave me yet."

She pouted, wiped her eyes, then shot a poser at me.

"All tells me that Dicky is living in town for a few weeks. Says he sees a lot of him over at the Fairfax apartment. I don't think you ought to stand for that, Madge."

If I had not known little Mrs.
Durkee so thoroughly, I perhaps should not have been so composed at the thrust she had given me concerning Dicky's visits to the Fairfax apartment. But I have become very well acquainted with my small friend's propensity for exaggeration so at her remark I simply smiled at her teasingly and held up an ad-monishing forefinger.

"Now 'fess up!" I said sternly. "On your honor now! Did Alfred say specifically that he had seen a lot of Dicky over at the Fairfaxes?"

Shame on Them.

PERHAPS there are a few mothers who do not know the virtues of Fletcher's Castoria. Perhaps there are a few who know that there are imitations on the market, and knowing this demand Fletcher's. It is to ALL motherhood then that we call attention to the numerous imitations and counterfeits that may be set before them.

It is to all motherhood everywhere that we ring out the warning to beware of the "Just-as-good". For over thirty years Fletcher's Castoria has been an aid in the upbuilding of our population; an aid in the saving of babies.

And yet there are those who would ask you to try something new. Try this. Try that. Even try the same remedy for the tiny, scarcely breathing, babe that you in all your robust womanhood would use for yourself. Shame on them.

PRESIDENT WILL KEEP TAUT REINS ON BALLOTTING

MARSHALL BOOM TO BE SOULEDGED, IF SHOWS SERIOUS

By LEE ELLMAKER.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Administration leaders, voicing the opinion of the President, look on the beginning of the third day of the convention with unreserved satisfaction. They believe the unlimited control they have held in the organization will continue during the remainder of the week.

The administration forces went to the coast with a detailed program. They have been successful in carrying out the first moves. The manipulation for place in the running of the campaign is the problem before the President today and he is expected to keep in closer communication with his leaders.

PLAN TO HOLD REINS

The course of the President so far has been to give as much support to his friends as he could and with the view of consolidating their votes at the logical moment.

Anti-administration leaders here look for a move to force Vice-President Marshall into the breach if a deadlock is reached and which they expect to come in the third or fourth ballot. Anti-administration observers believe the President must swing the convention in the early balloting to prevent the nomination of Marshall or a candidate similar to him.

The early forcing of the McAdoo boom would prevent any defection from the President's strength, even his opponents admit. The President is taking into account every angle of the proceedings and will be one of the first to recognize the coming of any defection because of the distance between him and the seat of activities which gives more opportunity for observation.

EMERGENCY PREPARATION.

If the President talks to the convention through the telephone arrangement installed at the convention hall, it will be a move to stem the tide of defeat, and not so long as the convention is moving his way, those in close touch with the White House president today.

The President was said to look upon this unusual procedure as unnecessary and in a great measure as "circular play."

U.S. UNNEUTRAL, DE VALERA SAYS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish republic, declared today that the United States is not being neutral in the Irish-British differences, when he refused to recognize the new government. The present policy of "non-interference" or "inaction" he claimed was a decided advantage of England and a wrong to Ireland.

De Valera spent most of the day in offices near the Civic Auditorium where the merged freedom for Irish organizations have established headquarters. He made this statement:

"Is there any just reason why America should depart from its established policy of non-interference in Ireland? Has the British Empire got some special license entitling it to enslave? Or is there some reason why British threats should be heeded when the threats of other tyrannies were not?"

"Before and during the war, through the explicit declarations of its chief executives, the position of the United States was made clear. The position of Britain was made equally definite through the declarations of its responsible executives. What has since happened? Britain has now been offered or to object if America refuses to betray its dead and insists on applying to the particular case of Ireland the general principle agreed upon during the war. America has given the hostages of the lives of its best—has Britain a right to claim that they be sacrificed?"

Wilson Gets Greetings From His Convention

WASHINGTON, June 30.—A telegraphic copy of the resolution adopted by the Democratic national convention praising the achievement of President Wilson in the conduct of the war and congratulating him on his recovery was delivered today to the president. It had been drafted in transit. There was no indication whether the president would send a reply.

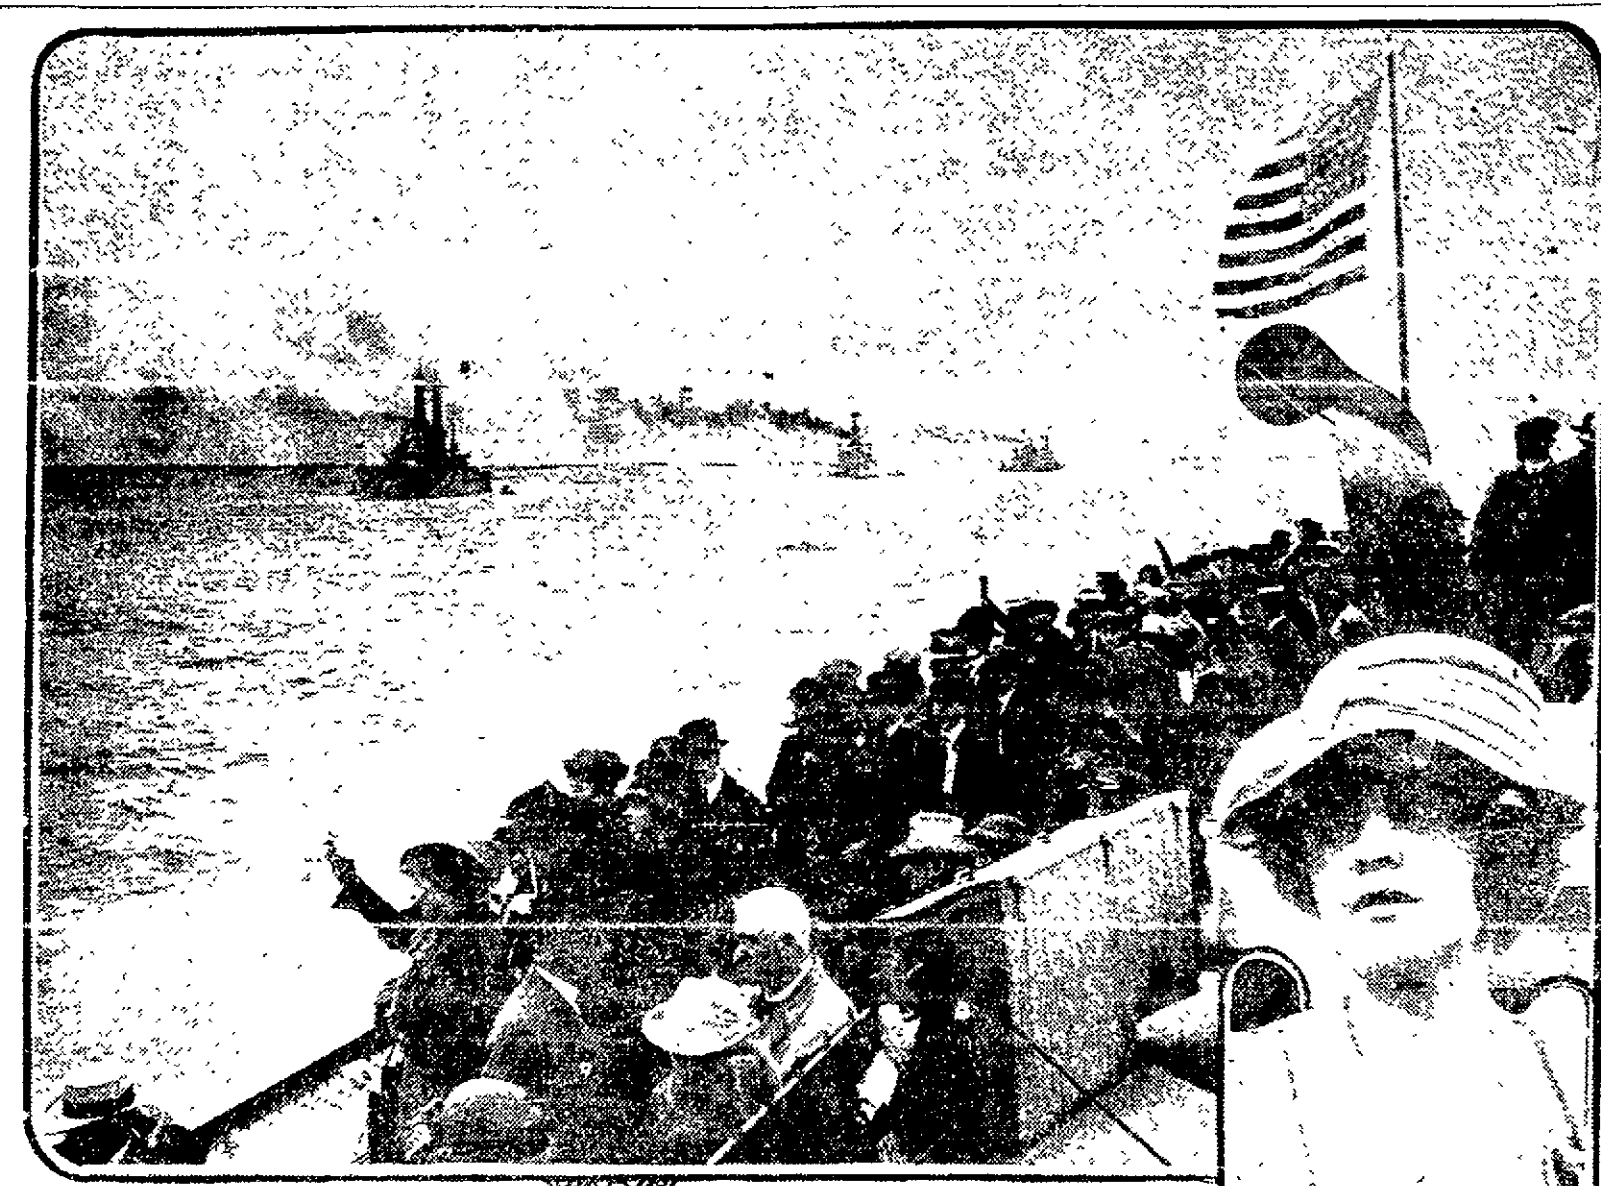

Bryan Calls Volstead Act Vital to Nation

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—William Jennings Bryan yesterday told the Commonwealth Club that the enforcement of the Volstead act was one of the most vital problems facing the nation. Bryan took his stand against anything that would lessen the rigors of prohibition legislation. He interspersed in his remarks bits of humor that brought applause.

League Approves Bureau of Labor Plan for Women

The permanent establishment of a woman's department in the Department of Labor has received the unanimous endorsement of the women of the California Civic League. The experiment which was tried out during the war period has met with their unqualified approval. Resolutions have been adopted asking that the bureau be made permanent.

San Francisco bay was a constantly changing panorama of interest for the throng of delegates, candidates and others who were taken over much of it on the jerry Asbury Park. Especially of interest was the battleship squadron which brought Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels here from the south. The inset picture at the side is MRS. NEILL WRIGHT, delegate from Tennessee and member of the League of Women Voters.

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Mrs. George Bass remains today the leader of the Democratic women, despite two days of determined effort to unseat her.

Women delegates and alternates, in caucus, gave Mrs. Bass what amounted to a vote of confidence. After a discussion as to whether it would be desirable to name Governor Roberts of Tennessee to advance the date of the special session of the Tennessee legislature to ratify the suffrage amendment, the women voted unanimously to allow the Tennessee delegates to submit a proposal to Mrs. Bass, giving Mrs. Bass authority to act.

For several days the word has been passed about that with the admission of women to the Democratic national committee Mrs. Bass would be forced out.

It was reported that Mrs. Perry V. Pennington of Austin, Tex., had retired from the national committee because she was dissatisfied with the leadership of Mrs. Bass, but Mrs. Pennington was the first to speak in support of Mrs. Bass, both women denied it emphatically.

"It is an infamous lie," said Mrs. Pennington. "I am retiring because I have too many other interests which occupy my time. I am strong in my support of Mrs. Bass, she bears the burden and to those who bear the burden must go the leadership."

Mrs. Luffner Jacobs of Alabama has created a stir among the women through efforts to obtain appointment to the national committee. Some of the women leaders, who have not been pleased with the appointment of Mrs. Elizabeth Marbury of New York. It is further charged that the League of Women Voters has too strong a grasp upon Democratic women, but out of all the undercurrent of dissatisfaction the fact stands out that Mrs. George Bass is the undeniable leader and has majority support.

Here's Plan for Platform Article X Is Untouched White House Dominates

By MARLEN E. PEW.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Hereafter is presented an authoritative forecast of essential planks in the tentative draft of the Democratic platform, which probably will be finally adopted within the next twenty-four hours.

FOREIGN RELATIONS

"The Virginia plank" which unqualifiedly endorses President Wilson's League of Nations is the model of the foreign relations plank, the changes being for the purpose of making the document more simple and comprehensive, the altered phraseology, in no way modifying the meaning of the original plank. Article Ten stands intact. The plank purports to declare that nothing in the covenant may be construed to take from the United States the control of her own troops, that no international questions, of interest to the United States alone, shall be surrendered to the League of Nations, and that the League of Nations shall not be affected by the sub-committee on resolutions stands exactly as President Wilson, represents here by Senator Carter Glass, would have it. There was much time spent by the sub-committee in a discussion of shades of meaning of words and phrases, but no serious effort to disturb the essential meaning.

IRELAND

An effort has been made to put into the platform an Irish plank which will declare the futility of passing resolutions in favor of the Irish republic or even recognizing the republic, but the importance of turning the question over to the League of Nations is favored. It is not clear at this time what form this plank will take.

MEXICO

Committee sentiment is for a plank which will withhold recognition from any government in Mexico that does not comply with such responsibilities as an effective border patrol, honest government, enactment of laws fit to protect foreign investments and legitimate trade, fair taxation of foreigners and payment of international obligations.

SOLDIERS' BONUSES

It is doubtful if the platform will favor full payment of soldiers' bonuses but will advocate assistance for maimed, crippled or sick soldiers as a government duty through a board. The tentative draft denies that able-bodied men who fought for America expect financial rewards but insists that a scheme for putting veterans in possession of land for agricultural pursuits, when desired, should be effected.

LABOR

The labor plank is construed by members of the committee as "highly progressive." A strong argument was made to recognize the right of labor to be represented in collective bargaining by representatives of their own choosing. The last four words it will be remembered, were "by representatives of their own choosing."

FOUR KILLED IN TRAILING SLAYER

HOUSTON, Tex., June 30.—Four negroes were killed near here early today by posse hunting the murderer of Sheriff of Wharton, Tex., according to word here. Watson Giles and his brother, accused of the murder, were shot by a posse headed by Sheriff Kemp near Houston Mound.

Two other negroes, alleged to have aided them in escaping were found hanging from a tree limb near Wharton, advisers said.

McCombs was killed when he attempted to arrest Giles for a misdemeanor Saturday night. The slaying at Wharton was described as intense.

MAIDS, Aero-Pickets, 'Bomb' Convention

AUDITORIUM, San Francisco, June 30.—A new sort of picketing was sprung on the delegates today. As the delegates were gathering, an airplane, carrying Miss Lucy Branham and Margaret Pucker, sailed over the city dropping balloons bearing protests against the Russian blockade.

Silk Shirt Unionists Get Licenses to Wed

CHICAGO, June 30.—That the trade unionist "who buys diamond rings and silk shirts" composes the new class of men marrying in Chicago was stated by the county clerk today, commenting on the total of 5584 marriage licenses issued in the only exceeded by the April, 1919.

Piedmont Likely TO ACQUIRE PARK

PIEDMONT, June 30.—The proposition of joint purchase of a 26-acre portion of Piedmont Park by the city for park purposes and by the school board as a site for the new Piedmont high school will be brought before the board of trustees at their meeting tomorrow night.

An offer to sell the easterly portion for $80,000 has been made by Louis McDermott, owner of the park, which comprises fifty acres.

School trustees have practically decided on the purchase of thirteen and a half acres of the park as a site for the city high school at a price of $60,000, it is said.

There are insufficient funds in the city treasury for the purchase of the city's portion as a public park, according to Weare C. Little, city clerk. There is, however, a provision in the city charter allowing a special 6-cent levy for purchase of parks by the city.

An offer has been made to the Governor Searches For Girl's Attacker

PORTLAND, Ore., June 30.—Milton Schwartz, convicted of attacking a young girl in New York city recently, but freed on condition that he leave New York state and come to Oregon, was taken into custody last night after he had been located in a Portland sanitarium. Governor Olcott, who today telegraphed a demand upon Governor Smith of New York that he take steps to secure the return of Schwartz to New York, came to Portland from Salem today and personally instituted search for Schwartz.

Accused Wife

After associating with other men and spending two or three nights at a time away from home, Mrs. Maud Knappp deserted him with the declaration that she did not love him and would not live with him, says Adrien Knapp in a suit for divorce filed today. Knapp asks for custody of two children, Albert, 12, and Edith, aged 6.

city by Wallace M. Alexander to advance the city the money with which to buy the park, which would be repaid by the city on a long-term installment plan.

Palmer Asserts He Is Assured Of Nomination

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—United States Attorney General Palmer issued the following statement today on the possibilities of his securing the Democratic nomination for the presidency:

"I am confident the Democratic party will return me as the standard bearer. Present indications point that I am the strongest candidate being considered and we are going to start with 320 or 725 votes on the first ballot. The delegates who will cast their ballots for me are staunch and will be right through."

"With this much of a showing on the first ballot, my strength will increase with each succeeding ballot. The Palmer delegates are loyal and will remain so to the last. I am assured of the nomination and I am confident that this assurance is well founded."

CONVENTIONALITIES

AUDITORIUM, San Francisco, June 30.—The Democratic national convention was dining at the Palace with Mrs. Palmer and a few celebrities when the Palmer forces, about 100 strong, invaded the lobby. Palmer was all smiles during the demonstration. Then with the exit of the boosters, the Cox forces with uniformed brass band, cheer leaders and gleeful singers invaded the lobby. Palmer, undeterred by the arrival of the rival forces, finished his meal, still smiling.

Some sections of crowds in the hotel lobbies remind one of the Mexican army. So numerous are badges, banners, gold lace and insignia, a Mexican general could not out-do them.

While Palmer boosters were cheering like mad in the street outside the electric lights, the banners and excitement in front of the St. Francis Hotel, the Cox forces were in the lobby. He got lots of curious stares and one audible tribute:

"That a handsome man He should be president," she said.

A Chinaman, with his wife trotting at his heels, zipped with celestial calm the electric lights, the banners and excitement in front of the St. Francis Hotel, the Cox forces were in the lobby. He got lots of curious stares and one audible tribute:

"That a handsome man He should be president," she said.

FARMER LOSES ON YEAR'S CROP, COUNCIL CLAIMS

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The farmers of the country ran behind $6,481,787,000 last year, according to figures made public today by the Farmers' National Council, after an investigation of several months.

The investigation proves that farmers are absolutely without justification, says the statement issued by the council and shows "the farmer's interest as a laborer is less than that of a capitalist."

Stevadores Battle; One Hurt Fatally

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Thomas Duncan, 38, residing at 105 San Jose avenue, suffered probably fatal injuries in a fight today with Larry Murphy at pier No. 6.

According to fellow-workers, the fight was an argument over the way their work was being performed. At the end of a spirited encounter Duncan was removed to the Harbor Emergency Hospital. His skull was fractured and he received other injuries. The police are searching for Murphy. Both men are stevedores.

LUNN TELLS HOW UNIT RULE FIGHT WAR STARTED, WON

(Major Geo. Lunn of Scheuch, who led the fight which resulted in the Democratic national convention breaking the rule as applied to New York and allowing the delegates to vote as individuals, writes the following account of this achievement in the United Press. The action of the rules committee in freeing the New York delegates established a precedent and is considered one of the most important preliminary decisions of the convention, which by preventing the New York delegation from being voted as a unit may have a big part in determining the nomination.)

By GEORGE R. LUNN.
Major of Scheuch, New York.
(Written for the United Press.)

AUDITORIUM, San Francisco, June 30.—The unit rule for New York state delegates to the Democratic national convention was broken by the action of the Democratic national convention yesterday. The unit rule has held sway since 1876 with one unsuccessful attempt to break it. Last night a meeting was called at Albany of the New York state delegates and alternates, at which time I introduced the following resolution:

"Whereas the delegates and alternates elected in the Democratic primary in New York state to the Democratic national convention were elected by the people under the primary law of the state, therefore be it

"Resolved, that this meeting of the duly elected delegates and alternates be not subject to any unit rule, by which the majority may deprive the minority of the opportunity of voting in accord with the will of their constituents."

The resolution was defeated, many delegates believing they were bound by an unit rule action taken at an unofficial convention held in February. This entirely unofficial convention assumed the right to bind delegates who were to be nominated and elected by the people themselves the following April. This was an attempt to completely nullify the direct primary law of New York state.

Yesterday the rules committee gave a hearing on the resolution which would free from the operation of a unit rule the delegates from New York and all other states similarly situated. Arguments pro and con were heard by the committee with the result that they recommended the resolution whereby the unit rule is held valid except in states where mandatory legislation provide for the election of delegates by the people with congressional districts as the basis of representation. The action of the convention leaves New York delegates free.

COCHRAN CHANGES.

It is interesting in this connection to read the speech of Senator Charles McNary of Oregon at the Democratic national convention in 1884. He was then fighting the unit rule, though now as a delegate in 1920 he favored it. In 1884 he was the potential standard bearer of the Democratic party. He was then fighting the unit rule, though now as a delegate in 1920 he favored it. In 1884 he was the potential standard bearer of the Democratic party.

Mr. Cochran then referred to the fact that the Republicans broke the unit rule in 1880 and urged the Democrats to do in 1884. His description of the odious character of the unit rule abolished by the Republicans is enlightening. He says: "The unit rule was the political managers sought to place upon the wrists of delegates in the convention were broken in that body and the managers sought to throw the burden of liberty and free speech which is the life and soul of democracy, prostrate under the grinding wheels of an odious machine, were dashed to pieces."

The world of politics moves and if Mr. Cochran's description of the unit rule is accurate, he will rejoice with the rest of us that freedom now beckons to the liberator of the New York state delegation.

Letterman Wounded Vacation Is Planned

A group of Oakland and Berkeley women who have been visiting the Letterman general hospital in San Francisco during the last two years and helping to provide cheer for the wounded soldiers there will take 24 of the men on a vacation to Big Basin for two weeks.

In order to make this trip possible they are appealing for bedding, as the government does not supply this when the men are away from the hospital. People having bedding, which need not be new but which must be clean, are requested to leave it at 2124 Center street, Berkeley, or telephone Lakeside 5387, and ask that a messenger be sent for it. Donations of food or cash also will be welcomed.

Peace and Justice Asked for People Of Nation by Rabbi Martin Meyer

AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, June 30 (United Press).—Opening the third session of the Democratic national convention, Rabbi Martin A. Meyer of Temple Emmanuel, San Francisco, today offered the following prayer:

"Heavenly Father, enthroned in righteousness, be pleased we pray Thee, to look down with favor upon these Thy servants who are here gathered to promote the welfare of this people. May noble enthusiasms and lofty loyalty stay these delegates in their discussions and may the consecration of service and humanity be upon them as they debate those men and principles through which they would serve the nation. May the spirit of truth and justice be their guidance and the love of country be their inspiration so that, reflecting the light, they may bring blessing to themselves and to the people. May their deliberations be so conceived in humanity and love that therefrom may issue good for all and hurt for none, and this commonwealth grow from strength to strength in peace and equity."

Oh, Ladies, Ladies! Men Stand Aghast As You Campaign

(By International News Service) AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—The way some Democratic women attack each other, even in voting getting, is disheartening to politicians who always try to avoid fights.

"Why don't you come in for Palmer?" Mrs. Clarence Renshaw of Pittsburg asked a woman delegate.

"Why, I'm on the fence," was the reply.

"Well, I hope it's like a lady with both feet on same side of the rail," said Mrs. Renshaw.

At the Palmer breakfast at the Palace Hotel, prospective women converts to Palmerism gathered.

"I don't like Palmer because he wears spats," said one looking across to where Palmer sat in white-haired majesty.

"We're changing Palmer for his head, not his feet," was the biting response of an apostle.

LIAR, REED SAYS OF PARTY CRITIC

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—"I cannot discuss the question of a third party now. I do not care to discuss in any way the action of this convention in unseating me until it has completed its business here. If I have anything further to say or any action to take it will be after I go back home," Senator James A. Reed of Missouri said today when he was asked to discuss the Democratic national convention from the fifth Missouri district, made this statement today when shown a letter published here this morning, suggesting that Senator Reed head a new or third party.

The senator from Missouri said the action of the committee on credentials and of the convention had not changed his ideas on a vote.

The action of unseating me was taken by a few little men, and leaves no impression on me."

One thing, however, appeared to have ruled him considerably. It was the insinuation made by a speaker at the convention yesterday against his standing as a Democrat.

"I refuse to discuss third parties, my unseating or anything of the kind," he said. "I wish you would say this for me, if you dare. Yesterday someone called me a 'renegade Democrat.' It was an unmitigated lie."

'HOOTS' QUILTS PALMER COLD; IT'S COX' GAIN

By AD. SCHUSTER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—"The heroic act of Homer S. Cummings in saving the woman's resolution, and paralleling in seriousness the dramatic protest of Joseph B. Shannon against the 'hoon' dawg treatment of Senator Reed, there stands out of yesterday's session of the convention a defection in the camp of Palmer and a corresponding gain in that of Cox."

"Hoos" Kinney, yell leader of Stanford University, has quit the attorney general for the Ohio man. "Hoos" does not possess a vote, or a badge, but he waves a compelling pair of arms and is said to be a great stimulator of apparent enthusiasm. The loyal lunks of J. P. Drew, Auburn trained in C. M. director and Oakland boy, remain with Palmer.

To Shannon must go first honor for bravery. He got right up on a platform beside Cummings and the delegates what he thought them.

"I am going right back to Missouri," he said, and he never flinched when the crowd hurled back, "Good-bye."

HIS FAREWELL RETURNED.

"I am going to tell them that I protested against your action in setting aside the credentials of Palmer, the delegates what he thought them."

To this declaration there came from the floor the illuminating admonition, "Go to bed" and the crowd rocked with merriment.

Reed is about as popular with that sassy crowd of delegates as Article X is in Senate committee. In the space of forty-five seconds he was called a renegade, booted and hissed. He, too, probably will go home now for it is a poor Reed that does not know which way the wind blows. It is said that the crowd of "hoos" showed he was not without support.

We are going to have some platform served up tomorrow and if Uncle Tom Marshall has his way it will be written on a postcard. If the card is turned over to postmaster General Burleigh for delivery the convention will be here all summer.

COULDN'T HELP HIM

As William Gibbs McAdoo, the well known money adviser, might have said the convention is like any five-reeler, running the whole gamut of emotions. Take the man in New York who woke up when it was announced that there was a hospital in the building long enough to cry out, "I am sick right now." Imagine his feelings when he was informed that the hospital worked without prescriptions and was dry!

Then there was the woman who proposed the resolution to have the national committee composed of one woman and one man from each state and who was snatched from the floor to be put in the hands of the resolutions committee. There should have been sneaky music and tears just as there should have been a "Hoos" when H. Stule Gumbel mingles rescued the papers and forced the vote.

"The Democratic party must show whether it is in earnest on this question or not," the hospital worker said Cummings and the woman, who was Mrs. Alice Foster McCullough of Indiana, was shown that there could be no skull-duggery so long as the party was in the hospital without letting their thumbs, disconsolate.

And then there came into that vast assemblage, threading its way stealthily among the official and semi-official sergeants at arms, the shoulder of Albert W. Gilchrist of Punta Gorda, Fla.

"If we let these resolutions go through in this manner," he cried, "we are going to leave room for somebody to tear this convention wide open!"

BUDGET FIGURE TOTALS $80,640

Supplementary budget estimates for the municipal finance department and of the city executive branch, totaling $19,220, were submitted today to the Committee of Forty-eight. Reed was commended for the stand he has taken against the president.

NO MORE RESOLUTIONS

In Illinois somebody saw the point and the delegates were speculatively balanced on the end of his nose trembled with sympathy.

"Somebody will bring in a resolution which you will not wish to have read before the convention," he said in quavering tones, and there came a hush while neighbors murmured to each other such words as "Ireland," "booze," and "Reed."

No more resolutions appeared and the momentous crisis of 1920 was passed.

GIULI MARKS ESCAPE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—Fourteen-year-old Nora Carpenter is being sought today by the police following an escape from the juvenile home in San Francisco. The girl disappeared between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning.

SPECIFICATIONS PRESENTED FOR GARBAGE PLANT

Calling for the erection of a new $125,000 incineration plant and a new method of garbage collection under a ten-year contract, specifications were laid before the city council this morning for the new garbage disposal system. The issue was put over for two weeks for the adoption of the specifications.

The specifications for the contract, under a bidding system, were drawn by City Attorney H. L. Hagan and presented with a resolution by Commissioner W. H. Edwards, following the report and recommendations made several weeks ago by the city's garbage committee.

RATES FIXED.

The specifications provide that the successful bidder shall contract to collect all refuse of the city for ten years. The plant must have a capacity of 120 tons of green garbage a day and a similar amount of dry refuse.

A minimum rate of 45 cents a month is established for householders, with a twice-a-week service, the entire rate being based on a charge of 9 cents per room in the residence zone. A similar rate holds in the business district, designated as that bounded by the first limits, with an additional charge for each cubic yard.

Water-tight steel-bodied wagons are prescribed, collections in the business district are to be made at night, and the proposed contract requires free collection to the city of waste in the street cans.

$100,000 BOND REQUIRED.

No provision is made for the site to be chosen for the new plant, the recommendation being made, however, that the site should be furnished by the contractor entering the contract, with the approval of the council. A bond of $100,000 is required of the successful bidder. It is further required that the plant shall be in operation within fifteen months after the letting of the contract, and that the contracting company shall have charge of the garbage situation in the meantime.

Receipts shall be furnished under the contract, by the company, at wholesale cost to householders, and a complaint department must be maintained by the company.

SCOUTS TO OPEN ANOTHER CAMP

Because of the large attendance at the Boy Scout camp at Diamond, H. J. Bemiss, Scout executive, announced today that a second camp would open Monday, July 5, and that this would be followed by a third to give the maximum number of youngsters an opportunity to attend. It was originally intended to hold but a two week camp.

Bemiss today made the following announcement to Scouts who wish to attend the next camp.

"Scouts who wish to go to the second camp should assemble at the 102nd St. and Diamond street car

On the program at the camp this week is a lecture on "Bird Study," by Dr. B. U. Dyer, of the Museum of the California Academy of Sciences, and a camp fire talk on "Nature Study," Friday evening, by Professor William F. Bade, president of the Sierra Club and author of "Fourth of July exercises will be held on Saturday."

Noted Riders Gather at Livermore Three-Day Rodeo Opens Saturday

LIVERMORE, June 30.—A touch of the real "wild west" of the olden days will be afforded Democratic convention visitors by the Livermore rodeo July 3, 4 and 5. M. G. Callaghan, secretary of the rodeo, has sent invitations to all convention visitors, and has already received many personal assurances as well as letters from visitors saying that they wouldn't miss it.

That the convention, in the phrase of the circus advertising man, will be "better and bigger than ever" has been assured. The prizes are bigger, there are more events, and some of the most noted riders ever seen in the state have signed up. Many are already on the ground. The most noted of these are cowboys and cowgirls who have won their laurels at the annual Pendleton and Cheyenne rodeos. The state has a free camping ground is offered all automobile parties.

The rodeo management has made an announcement that automobiles have been receiving with particular gratitude. It is that a free camping ground is offered all automobile parties.

On the third day the sun shone, and although still hot and compelled to wait indefinitely hours for the leaves to be doled out, the people did so patiently and even cheerily.

All kinds of laws and police regulations were broken by the men, women and children forming the almost endless bread-lines, but the authorities took a lenient view of what occurred.

When an old man brought a camp bedstead, set it up on the sidewalk and stretched himself on it, a policeman rushed him and led him to the station house with his bed. The police captain first looked grave, then came to look when the offender explained he knew he might have to wait a while from twelve to twenty hours for his bread and had merely provided against fatigue. He was released and returned to his place in the line with his bed amid the applause of the crowd.

Another group hired a barrel organ whose owner played popular melodies while the people waiting with growing appetites and hollow stomachs danced around. On Calle de la Magdalena a cobbler arrived carrying a stool, his tools and a pair of shoes, which he was able to sole and heel before his turn came to obtain a loaf.

Similar scenes were enacted day after day amid general hilarity until the municipal authorities decided to break up the big bread-lines by distributing loaves from a large number of centers. The danger was then over.

Sun Prevents Strike of Bread Makers of Madrid

MADRID, June 30.—The sun prevented what threatened to be a serious outbreak in Madrid during the recent bakers' strike. The first two days of the bread scarcity were dull and threatening and the hungry poor were so affected by the lowering skies and the lack of food that they paraded the streets in groups uttering shouts and menacing storekeepers who kept their establishments open.

On the third day the sun shone, and although still hot and compelled to wait indefinitely hours for the leaves to be doled out, the people did so patiently and even cheerily.

Uncle Wiggly STORIES

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE MEW BIRD.

Copyright, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Nurse Jane, have you any dried bread?" asked Uncle Wiggly one morning, as he started away from his hollow stump bungalow.

"Dried bread?" exclaimed the muscular lady housekeeper. "Why, if you are hungry, I have some nice fresh bread for you, and there are also some brown cinnamon buns left. You remember the cinnamon which I found after you lost it in the swamp?"

"Remember," spoke Uncle Wiggly, "and I hope I hear the very song again today. I do not want dried bread for myself. I am going for a walk in the woods to look for an adventure and I want to scatter some dried bread crumbs for the birds. Dried bread is best for them."

"Oh, I have plenty of it," Nurse Jane said. "I'll give you a lot of crusts."

The bunny rabbit gentleman was on his way through the woods, scattering bread crumbs for the different birds as he walked along. The very first of his small swamp visitors picked up a few, and he sang for Uncle Wiggly.

The bunny rabbit gentleman was hopping along a little later, wondering what sort of adventure he would have that day, when, all of a sudden, he was caught by his ears and a voice cried:

"Ah ha! Now I have you! Now I shall get all the souse I want!"

Uncle Wiggly looked around, and saw that the bad old Skuddlemagoon had caught him.

"Oh, please let me go! Please don't take my souse!" begged the bunny, trying to reach his tail, silk hat so that with it he might make a dash and bow to the bad Skuddlemagoon.

"No, I will not let you go, and I will take your souse!" snapped the bad chap.

"What was just going to nibble a little souse off the bunny's ears when, all at once, some voices began to cry:

"Mew! Mew! Meow! Where are you, Uncle Wiggly?"

"On my goodness me sakes alive! Cats!" cried the Skuddlemagoon. "I can't bear cats anywhere near me! I'll catch you again, Uncle Wiggly! Over cats stand cats!" And, letting go of the bunny's ears, without taking a smitch of souse from them, he ran off to the Skuddlemagoon.

Then there came bustling through the woods, Joie Tommie and Kitten Kat, the three pussy children.

"We are on our way to school," meowled Tommie, "and we happened to see you just ahead of us, Uncle Wiggly."

"I am glad you did," said Mr. Longears with a smile which made his pink, twinkling nose all the brighter. "If you had not come along the bad old Skuddlemagoon would have had my souse."

"How was that?" asked Kitten Kat.

"Oh, it seems he is very much afraid of cats or kittens," was the answer. "He runs as soon as he hears them meowing or meowowing, and he ran just now as he heard you."

"I'm glad he did," purred Joie Kat.

"And if you walk along to school with us, we'll keep the Skuddlemagoon away all we can," offered Tommie.

Uncle Wiggly walked on to the hollow stump school with the pussy children. After they had gone in to recite their lessons to the lady mouse teacher, the bunny uncle hopped along to look for another adventure.

When he was in a deep, dark, silent part of the woods, wondering what would happen, all of a sudden, out from under a sour grass bush jumped the bad old Skuddlemagoon again.

"Now I have you for keeps!" sneekered the unpleasant chap. "There are none of the pussy children here now, to scare me away. For I saw them go in the hollow stump school. Now I'll get your souse!"

He reached over and grabbed Uncle Wiggly by the ears. The Skuddlemagoon was just going to nibble some souse off the tips, when, all of a sudden, there sounded right behind him a long:

"Mew! Mew! Meow!"

"Oh dear me, hum, suz du!" howled the bad chap. "Cats again! I can't bear cats! Tommie, Joie and Kitten can't be in school after all. But I must run away without any souse, for I can't bear cats!"

Away ran the Skuddlemagoon without any of the bunny's souse, and Uncle Wiggly was very happy.

"But I don't see Tommie, Joie or Kitten Kat," said the bunny, looking around.

"No, it was I who scared away the Skuddlemagoon, by making a noise like a cat," said a voice, and down out of a tree fluttered a slate-colored bird, the mew, or cat, bird, said the feathered chap. "I sing many songs, imitate many birds and I can, also, cry like a cat. You were so kind, scattering crumbs for all the birds, that I decided to do you a favor and I did."

"Indeed you did!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggly. "You saved my souse. Thank you!" Then he hopped on home, the catbird sang a joyful song and all was well.

Woman's Purse Found, Man Is Exonerated

ALAMEDA, June 30.—Accusing J. H. Saunders, Fifth and Taylor streets, of robbing her of a purse containing about $15, Mrs. A. Roderick, 432 Santa Clara avenue, called on the police last night. Officers Andrew Peterson and Louis Servant, both known to Saunders, were inclined to believe the woman mistaken. They learned that in passing each other Saunders had accidentally collided with Mrs. Roderick. A search of the woman disclosed the purse. Apologies ended the incident.

Board Refuses Hearing in Protest on Ousted Teacher

BERKELEY, June 30.—Refused ask that the resolutions be filed as per my original motion."

Dr. Kemp's motion carried with only the dissenting vote of Councilman Bartlett. Superintendent Wilson attended the early part of the school board meeting but left when high school business came under consideration.

A. S. Olney, state commissioner of secondary education, who is in Berkeley in attendance at the annual convention of high school teachers, will not conduct an investigation into the reasons for Wootton's dismissal.

The State Board of Education will take no part in this local disturbance as the matter now stands," said Olney today, "unless further charges are made which might discredit Wootton as a teacher and make his credentials worthless."

The matter of investigating the Wootton case was referred to Olney by State Superintendent of Schools Will C. Wood.

Wood's action followed a telegram received by him from a committee of Berkeley citizens headed by Mrs. Cleverdon, demanding that an investigation be made of "deplorable conditions existing in the Berkeley school."

The suggestion of Dr. Roy I. Woolsey, president of the board, that the communication be filed, brought Mrs. Cleverdon to her feet, after Dr. Kemp had been told by Dr. Woolsey that Superintendent H. B. Wilson had no further report to make on the matter.

"In going over the evidence in this case we found only the criticism of Mrs. Blanchard, head of the commercial department at the high school, against Mr. Wootton," said Mrs. Cleverdon. "As Mr. Wootton had been in the department for fourteen years, and Mr. Blanchard but one year, and was consequently unfamiliar with the work, we thought that possibly a mistake had been made and that an investigation would clear up matters and possibly Mr. Wootton might be reinstated."

"I move that the communication be filed," came from Dr. Kemp. "Just one moment," interposed Councilman C. Bartlett, "whose place as commissioner gives him a seat on the school board."

HEARING ADVOCATED

"I can't consistently vote for filing those resolutions," said the councilman. "It's not democratic action. I would not refuse a hearing to any group of taxpayers coming before this board. This hearing should be granted. Scientifically and technically this board is taking the right stand in upholding the superintendent and I, for one, would continue to support him if no more evidence than that which has been introduced for Mr. Wootton is presented, but I would favor giving these people the hearing they desire."

Has Mr. Wootton asked a hearing?" was a question from Dr. Kemp, which, brought an answer from Dr. Woolsey that the discharged teacher had not communicated with the board since May 14, the date of his dismissal.

"A common criminal in the courts is not denied a fair trial," declared Mrs. Cleverdon. "Surely a teacher with fourteen years of faithful service back of him may ask the same. We are seeking common justice, that's all."

CASE DECLARED CLOSED

"Mr. Wootton has had his hearing," rejoined Dr. Kemp. "He was reported upon by the head of his department, his principal and his superintendent. You are now asking a jury which has weighed the evidence and found a verdict of guilty to change its position. Mr. Wootton has had his trial and a fair one, and for us the matter is closed. I

POLICE TRAILING COUNTERFEITERS

Federal agents, working with the Oakland police, are today renewing their efforts to run down the gang of counterfeiters who have flooded the city with raised and counterfeit currency. The counterfeiters' favorite trick is to raise a one-dollar bill to ten dollars or a two-dollar bill to twenty dollars, according to the police.

The latest victim of the counterfeit gang is H. C. West, 505 Jackson street, who received one of the raised $10 bills last night in change when he purchased a shirt from a Chinese merchant. The Chinese says he took the bill from a woman. A partial description of the woman has been obtained.

One Stabbed in Row; Police Investigating

In a stabbing investigation last night on the platform of the Mills College station one man suffered two painful but not fatal wounds and several other men are under investigation by the police. The wounded man is Andrew Anderson, 1712 Bridge street. He was stabbed twice in the side, he claims, by Elden Hubbard, 1229 Fruitvale avenue. According to Anderson's story to the police, several men were waiting for a car at Mills College. When the car arrived a group of college girls alighted. Anderson says he protested at a language that was used in the girls' vicinity and the row followed.

Acoustic Expert to Survey Auditorium

G. Arthur Lansburgh, acoustic architect who was responsible for the improvement of the acoustic properties of the municipal auditorium in San Francisco, will make a similar investigation of the condition of the Oakland auditorium, under action to that end taken by the city council at the suggestion of Mayor John L. Davis. A resolution directing City Clerk Lon Cummings to invite Lansburgh to make the survey of the local auditorium, with a view to making changes necessary to improve the acoustic properties, was introduced before the council yesterday and adopted.

McCombs Inquires About Crown Prince

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—William F. McCombs, former chairman of the Democratic national committee and the man who gave out a statement attacking Wilson for his attempt to control the convention, arrived in San Francisco last night. "How fares the crown prince and his suite of cabinet ministers sent here from Washington to do his bidding?" was his first question. McCombs explained that he did not include Palmer in the group, as Palmer had come West as a candidate.

GAINS 35 POUNDS ON FIVE BOTTLES

"The change that has taken place in my health since I began taking Tanlac has surprised all my friends," said Mrs. Margaret E. Wood of 1723 Forty-seventh St., Tacoma, Wash., in an interview recently. "Well, it is enough to surprise anyone," she explained. "For I have actually gained 35 pounds on five bottles of Tanlac and I don't feel like the same person. About fifteen months ago I was taken down with influenza, which was followed by pneumonia, and as I was already in a badly run down condition, I thought I would never get well. After I did get up I was little better than a nervous wreck. I had no appetite and what little I did eat was always followed by distressed feelings, with pains in every part of my body. I kept losing weight and strength and got to feeling so bad that I just had to let my housework go. My nervousness kept me from sleeping and it was a constant worry for me to roll and toss throughout the night. "I was in just about as bad a fix as anyone ever got to be when I decided that as Tanlac had helped my mother of mine I would see what it could do for me. Well, I improved almost from the start. My appetite picked up, and I soon got to where I could eat anything I wanted without having any trouble. I gained 25 pounds. My nervousness has left me and I sleep fine. It is now my pleasure for me to do my housework and I feel like a woman made new. I can't praise Tanlac enough for what it has done for me."

Stronger Than is Usually Thought Necessary

The powerful and enduring body of Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes is far thicker than that of ordinary tubes—in some cases as much as twenty per cent.

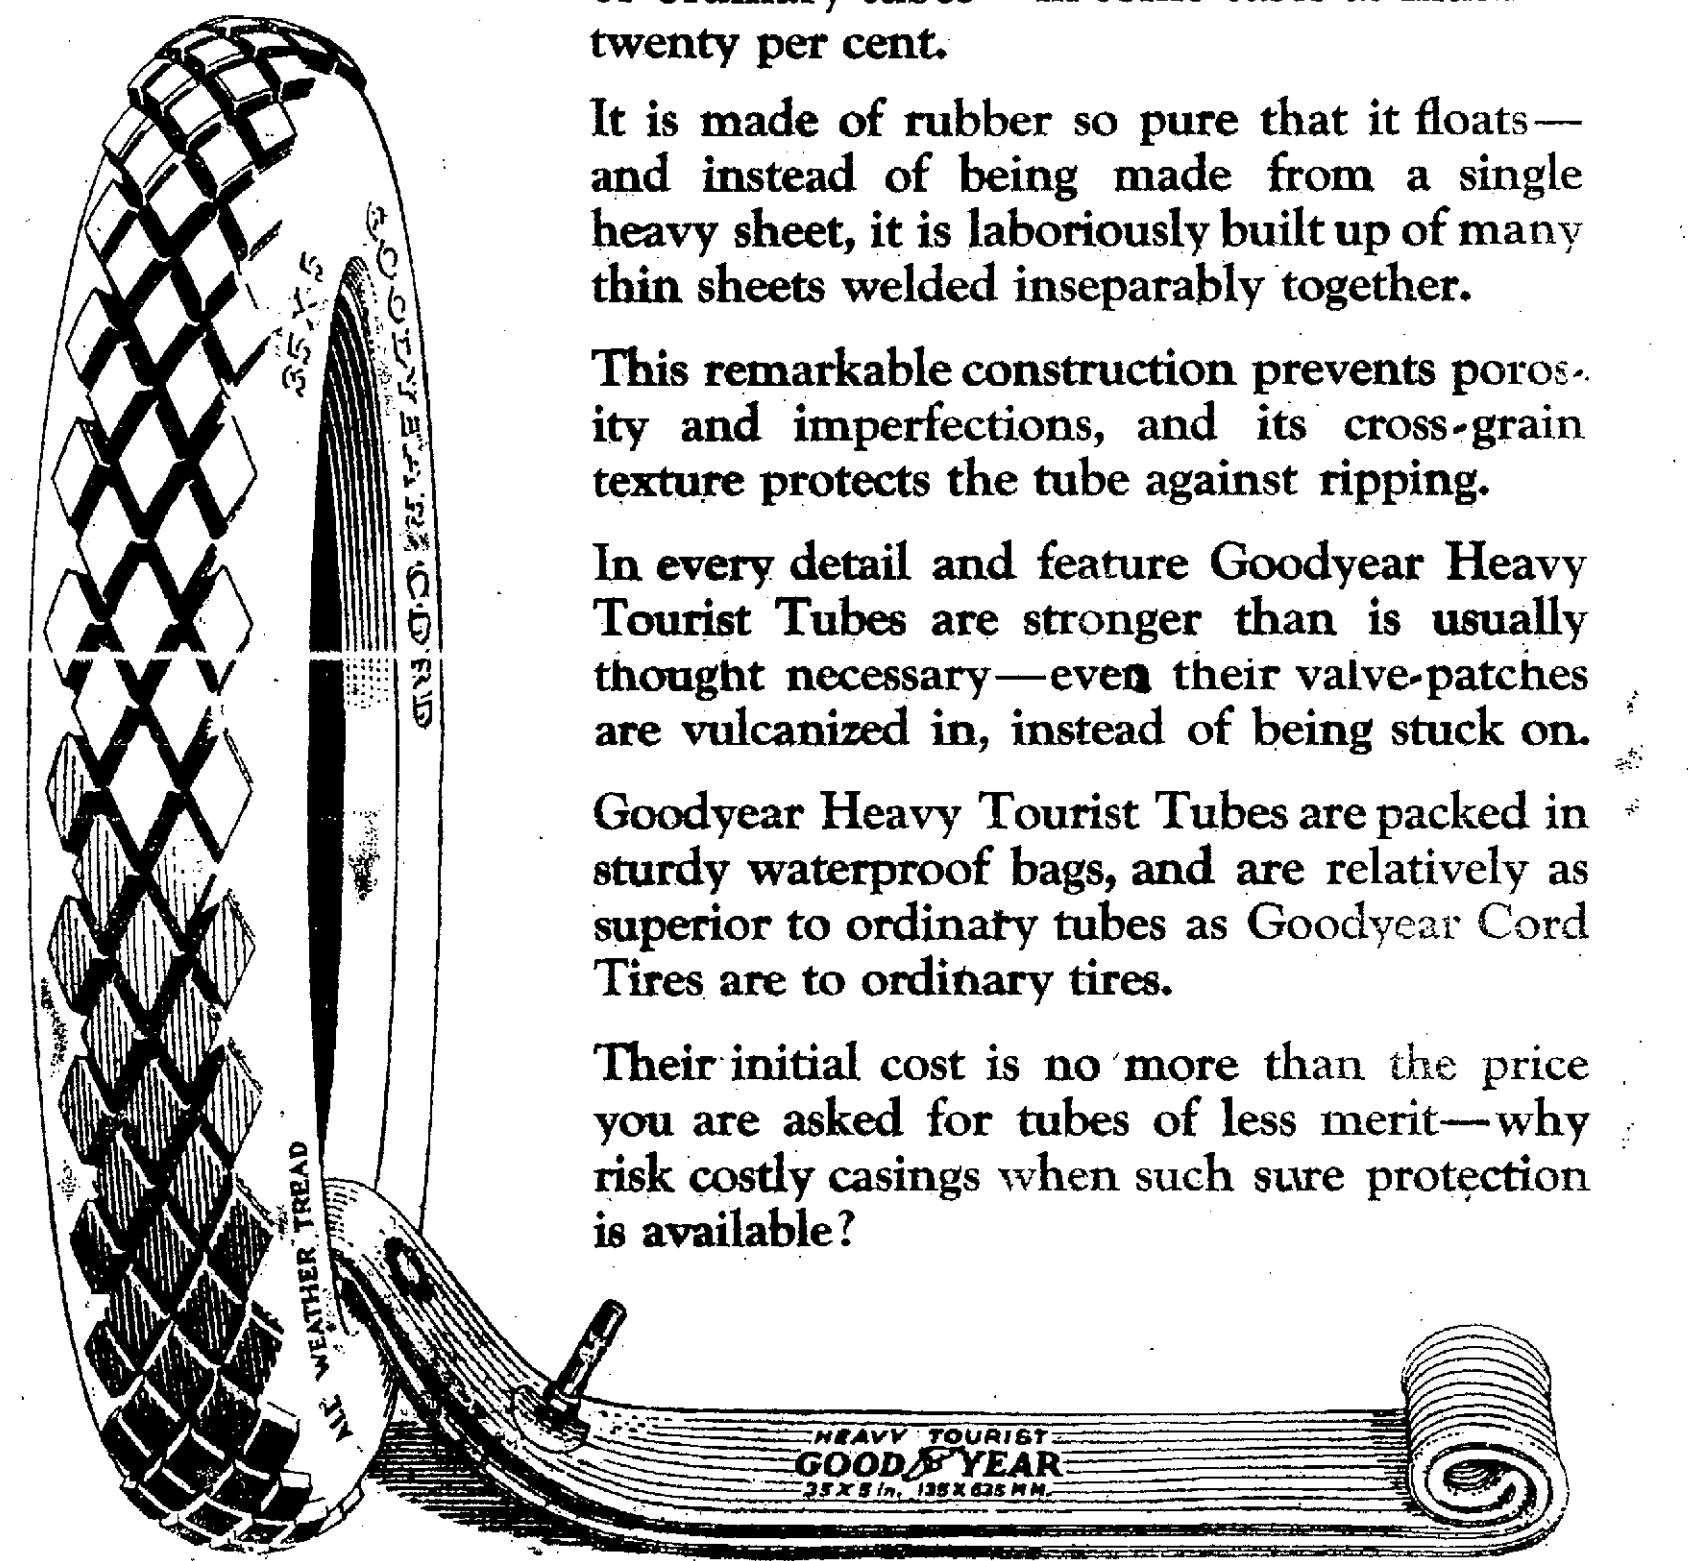

It is made of rubber so pure that it floats—and instead of being made from a single heavy sheet, it is laboriously built up of many thin sheets welded inseparably together.

This remarkable construction prevents porosity and imperfections, and its cross-grain texture protects the tube against ripping.

In every detail and feature Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are stronger than is usually thought necessary—even their valve-patches are vulcanized in, instead of being stuck on.

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are packed in sturdy waterproof bags, and are relatively as superior to ordinary tubes as Goodyear Cord Tires are to ordinary tires.

Their initial cost is no more than the price you are asked for tubes of less merit—why risk costly casings when such sure protection is available?

The new bill requires that the American mails be carried on American ships wherever practicable. Several millions of dollars are expended annually for transportation of United States mails, about two-thirds of this money is paid to foreign ships. This constitutes nothing more nor less than a direct subsidy to them. The bill provides that for many years has been obstructed from greater development by the constant marine by restrictions imposed through obsolete commercial treaties. The new bill happily directs the commercial agent to give the notice necessary to abrogate such treaties. There would be no more opportune time than the present to abrogate treaties and make new commercial agreements. France already has expressed her desire to abrogate her treaties, thus giving the way for the United States to put itself in a more favorable position for the promotion of American commerce.—Washington Post.

COURT DECLARES ESTATES MUST GET PROTECTION

Declaration that the probate court will not tolerate agreements between persons interested in estates of deceased persons whereby the interests of the estate are permitted to suffer was made from the bench by Superior Judge E. C. Robinson today when William Harrower, administrator of the estate of Mrs. Jane Ann D. Harrower, testified that there was only $17 left in the estate.

Mrs. Harrower died in Alameda September 28, 1919, leaving an estate of less than $10,000, but no will. Her husband, Keith Harrower, valued his right to administer the estate and asked for the appointment of William Harrower, a more distant relative. Then the husband filed suit against the estate to quiet title to certain Alameda real estate and the court decided that the estate had no interest therein.

"Did you, as administrator, fight this suit to the limit," asked Judge Robinson of Harrower today. The witness stated at the court but made no answer.

"It was your duty as administrator to fight to protect the interests of the estate," said the court. "This court is not going to permit outside agreements to the detriment of an estate, when there is an administrator sworn to look out for its rights."

"I presume he was represented by counsel," said the attorney.

"I was asking him," said Judge Robinson. "It might as well be stated right now that that will be the attitude of this court."

Still Harrower made no reply until his attorney asked him if there had been a judgment of the court in the matter, to which he replied in the affirmative.

Judge Robinson said he would continue the application for final distribution of the estate to permit him to examine the decree.

'COTS' GO TO $110 IN BUYING WAR

SAN JOSE, June 30.—After laying back until the California Packing corporation showed their hand by entering this field and making contracts with growers for canning apricots at $100 a ton, the growers' green fruit marketing organization, known as the California Fruit Growers, Inc., established a price of $110 a ton in the expectation of blocking sales to the corporation. Immediately afterward the growers' selling agency began booking sales at $110 as rapidly as their entire force could make them, the buyers being the various independent canneries of this section.

The California Packing corporation is said to have bought thousands of tons of fruit at $100 a ton in the vicinity of Hayward, Warm Springs, Modesto and in San Benito county before the growers established their price of $110. These figures were on the basis of apricots running 16 to the pound.

'CHICAGO STATE' SUGGESTED TO BRING PEACE

CHICAGO, June 30.—"A separate state of Chicago" may be necessary unless Cook county and down-state factions compose their differences, Col. D. M. Chipperfield, candidate for U. S. senator, told the association of commerce today. The creation of a separate state is within the range of possibility and will be the natural solution of difficulties, Col. Chipperfield said.

The arrangement has been going on for 20 years, but it comes to an end tonight!

Position Created to Repay 'Snitch,' Claimed by Baccus

The charge that two new positions, one created for the purpose of "taking care of a common snitch," had been slipped into the measure after it was drafted and passed to print, was made before the city council this morning in a dramatic session, when the new ordinance re-creating and codifying all positions in the municipal service was laid before the commissioners for final action.

As a result the ordinance, which should have become effective tomorrow, together with a sister ordinance fixing new salaries in accordance with increases recently granted, failed of passage. The measure will be brought up again, however, tomorrow morning for further debate and final action.

The positions attacked by Commissioner Baccus are those of chief of street maintenance, at a salary of $275 a month, which he charged was created for "old city pipe work," and Commissioner Frederick Soderberg as a reward for Thompson's alleged aid to Soderberg in the recent pipe and pump episode that resulted in the switching of Commissioner Baccus and Commissioner W. H. Edwards; the position of foreman of street sweeping at a salary of $150 a month and an additional position of waterfurnace.

During an informal discussion Baccus charged that Thompson led Commissioner Soderberg to the gun club where the city pipe work was being used, and that Thompson had been given the promise that he would be "taken care of" for his work in the pipe investigation.

Commissioner Baccus opened his attack on the ordinance when it was laid before the commissioners for final action this morning. During the discussion of his position he declared that in order that the employees involved might receive their increases commencing tomorrow he would vote for the measure regardless of its curtailment of the powers of the Civil Service Board, if those portions creating the first two of the three additional positions under attack were eliminated.

"I won't vote for any ordinance that takes care of a common ordinary snitch," declared Baccus. "Someone slipped these two positions into this ordinance without any authority from the council."

Commissioner W. H. Edwards declared that the two positions referred to, which Commissioner Baccus claimed were unnecessary, were created in his department of streets, and that it should be left to him to state whether or not they were necessary. Edwards appealed against any delay on the measure that would result from a long postponement.

This is Commissioner Soderberg's ordinance and he should be here to take care of it," answered Baccus to the appeal for the necessity of action this morning.

After a long discussion a motion to hold the ordinance for call was made and lost when Commissioner F. F. Morse registered an opposition vote, and as a final way out of the dilemma the ordinance was put over until tomorrow.

Commissioner Baccus, Commissioner Edwards and Commissioner Morse were the only members of the council present at this morning's session.

MUST REPAY DEBT

"I readily understand why Mr. Soderberg must repay his debt to Mr. Thompson," charged Commissioner Baccus when he opened his attack on the measure, "but why repay him at the expense of the taxpayers to the tune of $275 a month?"

Thompson, it developed, was formerly employed in the street department under Commissioner Baccus at a salary of $175 a month, but was let out when the position was abolished as unnecessary.

The question of the effect of the ordinances on the power of the Civil Service Board, which under the measures would have no control over salaries, increases and promotions of city employees, was injected into the discussion with the charge by Commissioner Baccus that the measure deprived that board of powers it has held for years.

JURY DRAWN TO HEAR STORY OF GIRL ACCUSER

RICHMOND, June 30.—The hearing of evidence in the trial of Frank McKale of El Cerrito, charged with an attempted attack on Miss Mary McCullum, Irish girl brought to their home by the McKales, was started in the Superior Court of this county today.

Practically all of the first day of the trial yesterday was consumed in the selection of a jury, for which a special panel of forty-five names had been drawn. Both sides used practically all of their peremptory challenges to eliminate jurors.

The jury finally selected consisted of James E. Hoadley, Antonio S. Maria, Edward A. Milloon, Walter J. Kraatz, Stanley G. Myrick, J. Frankel, Joseph Thornton, Mrs. Eloise Saunders, Fred W. Eacey, Mrs. G. L. Van Pelt, Dallas P. Alden and Rufus D. Stanton.

Attorneys for both sides made their preliminary statements to the jury late yesterday afternoon. Deputy District Attorney H. V. Alvarado and Attorney H. J. Wilder of Richmond are prosecuting McKale, who is being defended by attorneys Pierce and Carlson of Richmond.

Miss McCullum alleged that she left the home of the McKales after McKale had attempted to attack her, and further charged that the McKales had tried to induce her to entertain other men. She said she was brought from Ireland by the McKales and came on upon their urgent solicitation. The McKales made a sweeping denial of the charges of the girl, saying they brought her to this country only after she had repeatedly requested them to do so, and that she had been well treated, but had been very ungrateful and had refused to do anything about the house.

A resolution laid before the City Council this morning by F. F. Morse, commissioner of public health and safety, declaring an epidemic of rabies and requiring the enforcement of the dog-muzzling ordinance, failed of passage when members of the council refused to place the city under the stigma of a rabies plague.

Objection to the move was made by Commissioner W. H. Edwards, who deplored the unpleasant publicity to the city. Commissioner W. J. Baccus declared that he would not vote on the measure unless he could be shown that a rabies epidemic actually existed. Failing to have a sufficient number of votes, the move was automatically tabled.

Accompanying the resolution he offered Commissioner Morse furnished the council with a communication to Dr. Kirby Smith, city health officer, from Secretary J. R. Bancroft of the State Board of Health, calling attention to reports from the State Hygiene Laboratory in Berkeley.

These reports showed, according to Bancroft, three positive cases of rabies in Oakland dogs, and that two persons are now undergoing the Pasteur treatment after having been bitten by Oakland dogs. Bancroft stated that the evidence showed the situation has assumed an epidemic character and that the muzzling ordinance should be enforced.

SCHOOL BODY AUTHORIZES BOND SALE

BERKELEY, June 30.—In order to rush to completion the remainder of the building program, the board of education yesterday authorized Miss Nellie Crowl, secretary, to request the district attorney to take steps to place on the market $921,000 in school bonds still remaining to be sold.

The bonds still in the hands of the board consist of $492,000 in the high school appropriation authorized at last year's election and $429,000 for the elementary schools.

DIFFICULTY EXPECTED
An early request will be made by the district attorney's office to the board of supervisors to place the bonds on sale. Owing to the low market value of bonds of the school type, difficulty is anticipated in disposing of the large amount remaining in the board's hands. Under the law the school officials cannot sell the bonds under par but can prevail upon contractors to take the securities at a discount. It is expected that the latter plan will be carried out in order that work may proceed on the buildings still to be constructed.

BUILDING PLANS OFFERED
Plans for Hawthorne and Longfellow schools were presented to the board yesterday by Architect W. H. Hays. The proposal for the former school is to move the present building from its site at Ninth and Sixth streets to a new location adjoining San Pablo Park and to modernize and enlarge the structure. Under this plan Hays estimated the cost at $87,000 while an entirely new building, it is declared, would cost $50,000 additional. Plans for both buildings were referred to the board for further consideration.

LONDON, June 30.—Four hundred Italians have been killed in two days' fighting between anarchists and troops at Ancona and Piombino, according to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Rome today quoting the newspaper Epoca.

Pierce battles, during which the soldiers employed artillery, raged in the streets of both cities. The anarchists fought from behind powerful barricades. The troops bombarded these forts violently and then carried them by storm.

ALAMEDA POLICE JAIL YOUTHS ON ROBBERY CHARGE

ALAMEDA, June 30.—Two youthful alleged burglars are in the Alameda city prison, apprehended last night just at dusk as they were espied leaving the home of Edward Jenkins, 1212 Walnut street.

They gave their names as George Knight, 20, and George Wells, 19, and said they were members of the Police George Daly that they had been living at 1945 Market street, San Francisco.

According to the police, Wells admitted entering the Jenkins home with Knight. Becoming frightened at a noise just as they were about to ransack a dresser, the two fled, said Wells, to be picked up by Officers Andrew Peterson and Louis Servante.

At the station Wells also admitted having entered the Ben Jon home, 2016 Encinal avenue, where it had been reported burglars had ransacked the house and stolen a watch.

OAKLAND PLANS
VARIED PROGRAM
FOR JULY FIFTH

The programs for the literary exercises to be held in the theater of the Municipal Auditorium and the carnival of water sports and races on Lake Merritt, the two afternoon features of Oakland's Fourth of July celebration next Monday, have been practically completed by the committees of the Merchants' Exchange handling those details of the day.

Emerson Brooks, widely known for his literary works, has been selected to act as the host of the literary program, which will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Brooks will read an original poem, "The Ghost of an Old Continental." The program will include an address by a prominent actor to be chosen later by the committee, vocal solos by Clarence H. Oliver, selections by the Masonic quartet, members of Henderson's orchestra and the reading of the Declaration of Independence.

WATER SPORTS.

The program of water sports and races on Lake Merritt will also be started at 2 o'clock and will continue throughout the afternoon. Arrangements already made under the direction of Playground Supervisor Jay B. Nash and W. H. Graham, chairman of the Merchants' Exchange committee, include a series of twelve events—single and double rowboat and canoe races for both men and women, tub races, comedy canoe race, tugging, surfboard riding and a life-saving demonstration by the employees of the municipal boathouse. An added aquatic feature will be given at 7 p. m. in the shape of a water baseball contest from floats.

MUSIC IN AFTERNOON.

There will be music at the lake during both the afternoon and evening programs, and all of the contestants in the water sports will compete for cash prizes. The water carnival will reach its height in the evening with a night of illuminated small craft on the lake. The fireworks display will follow the "Fire in Venice" at 8 o'clock.

School Course 'Hodge Podge,' Olney Says
Vocational Aids Scored By Commissioner

BERKELEY, June 30.—Methods of teaching employed in the high schools of California were termed a "hodgepodge" by A. C. Olney, state commissioner of secondary education, in addressing several hundred educators assembled at the University of California this morning at the second day's session of the California High School Teachers' Association.

Olney predicted that the high school curriculum in California would undergo an almost complete metamorphosis within the next few years as a result of investigations showing the inadequacies of its present content. Olney and E. D. Shurtz, professor of public speaking at the University of Texas and member of the summer session faculty at the state university, scored "university domination" of high school courses, no longer to be attended has been paid to the boy and girl who enters the business or industrial world and that thought was directed entirely to a "college career."

BUSINESS STUDY RAPID. "High school teachers in California do not speak the same language," declared Olney. "A considerable amount of time is spent in teaching methods of presentation. In fact for the last few years in the high school education has been all about the method of presentation. The result has been a hodgepodge of which we are not proud. We have, however, already advanced from the days of university domination to the days of business study."

Olney scored the business education afforded in the high schools today. "There is not enough or sufficient vocational guidance in our high schools," he declared. "The commercial courses given in most of our high schools are now merely sufficient to prepare a graduate to become an under clerk, an assistant bookkeeper or a typist, all minor vocations. The commercial courses should be strengthened by the addition of more advanced courses. To the chief vocational of high schools paid in our high schools, indeed, to mention it, should be high school students, who were recently asked to state their vocational ambitions only five girls gave home-making as their choice 28 desired artistic careers, 176 wanted to be stenographers."

PRACTICAL WORK URGED

"Every high school, however small, should have courses in cost design, interior decoration, landscape gardening and in household science to include a study of the types of machines to lighten the burdens of housekeeping. Such a course could be offered in place of physics and chemistry as a laboratory science. Such a course in rural communities should be an incentive to boys and girls to remain on the farm. Four per cent of our boys and girls now aspire to agricultural life. It should be the aim of our high school teaching to prepare our boys and girls for the next step in their life work, the choice of a vocation. In this training we should not neglect the preparation for home-making as the vocation leading to their future happiness and the only sure foundation for good citizenship."

Psychological tests for all high school students as a means of placing them vocationally were urged yesterday by Professor W. M. Proctor of Stanford University, at a meeting of the Vocational Guidance Society of California, held in conjunction with the teachers meeting.

A. J. Cloud, assistant superintendent of schools in San Francisco, presided as chairman, while other speakers were L. W. Bartlett, supervisor of advisement and training in the rehabilitation division of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, and A. H. Chamberlain, executive secretary of the California Council of Education, both of whom discussed vocational problems.

That the majority of high school students were desirous of securing "white-collar" positions and eschewed "unprofessional" work was the declaration of Professor Proctor.

Tests conducted among 1000 high school students showed 73 per cent seeking professional or clerical positions, with 18 per cent undecided as to a vocation. The remainder were divided among a dozen or more occupations.

Psychological tests, while in an experimental stage, have proved successful in determining the intelligence of students as a step toward building them toward their life work. He declared, however, that follow-up work was important as the tests were as yet in an experimental stage.

To counselors of young people he gave the following warning: "Be sure that your work is vocational in its true sense and that it is not made vocational dictation."

Following today's general conference in California hall sessions were held by the American Association of Teachers of Spanish, Northern California Chapter, with Miss Margaret Moore of Mission High School presiding; the California State Association of English Teachers, Miss Effie McFadden, San Francisco State Normal school, chairman, and the general section of the Classical Association of the Pacific States, of which Professor Torsten Peterson of the University of California is president.

Meetings were also held by the commercial section, C. I. Blanchard, Berkeley High school, chairman; home economics section, Miss Frances Schuler, Oakland High school, chairman, and the mathematics section, H. Rode, Clovis High school, chairman.

The program for tomorrow's general session in room 101, California hall, at 9:30 o'clock, follows:

Address—"Financing Our Schools—The Initiative Measure," E. Morris Cox, president of the State Council of Education, Oakland.

Address—"A Professional Wage for Teachers," G. M. Thiriot, Oakland Technical High school.

Address—"Professional Education," C. E. Rugh, professor of education, University of California.

Discussion may follow any of the above addresses.

Annual business meeting of the California High School Teachers' Association.

TOMATO JUICE
STARTLES CROWD

LOUISVILLE, June 30.—A tomato caused it all.

Women screamed, tears came to the eyes of strong men, hurray-calls were sent for doctors, and a crowd became wildly excited—about nothing.

It happened at Second and Broadway about like this:

John McKernan, a hugster, 433 East Ormsby avenue, accompanied by his son, John Jr., was driving his wagon south on Second street. A Second street car came along just as they reached Broadway and, of necessity, a collision followed.

The lad was hurled high in the air and landed on the sidewalk.

A shoe, dripping red, was clutched in his hand.

A crowd, as are wont to do, gathered, and all eyes were centered on the little shoe with its pathetic message of an amputated foot.

The screams, the tears, the hurray-calls and the excitement chronicled about all happened.

Then John Jr., brushing away tears, perceived and carried that very most covered him, arose and spoke.

"Look," he laughed. "My shoe came off and a big fat tomato squashed right into it."

John wasn't hurt at all, and his father got off with a slightly wrenched back.

WIFE VANISHES; RETURNS WHEN HUSBAND DIES

NEW YORK, June 30.—Death led Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, mysteriously missing, back to her home here.

Her aged husband, Joseph Smith, and their grown children, were unable to explain her disappearance.

While at the Iroquois Yacht Club, one of the daughters received a letter from Mrs. Smith, merely announcing she would never return home.

When the contents of the letter were telephoned to Smith he dropped dead from the shock.

Mrs. Smith came back unannounced. She said she had read in the newspapers of her husband's death and had returned for the funeral.

She refused to explain why she had left home or where she had been.

Plump Maiden Sat
On Deacon's Lap

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—Love flew out of the window of the home of James A. Howard, elderly Santa Monica deacon, when his wife, Mrs. Luella M. Howard, discovered that a 170-pound woman had been sitting on his lap.

This Mrs. Howard, who some months ago was divorced, testified before a jury in Judge McCormick's court yesterday in behalf of H. C. Harper, wealthy Downey rancher, whom Howard is suing for $25,000 for alienation of affection.

Harper denies he stole the love of Mrs. Howard, but claims that Howard himself destroyed that affection. The trial will be continued today.

Place America Above All,
Harding's First Plea Urges

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Declaring the nation "requires no council of foreign powers to point the way to American duty," Senator Charles McNary, Republican nominee for president, in his first campaign speech, urged the preservation of Americanism as the first and highest endeavor of all citizens of the republic.

The candidate's first utterance of the campaign was heard by no audience, being made for a photographic record to be released on the Fourth of July and to be used throughout the campaign. A copy of the Senator's address was made public at his office, with the speech made last week by Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts, the party's Vice-Presidential nominee, for a similar purpose.

Senator Harding chose "Americanism" as his subject, while Governor Coolidge spoke on "Law and Order."

America, Harding said, does not mean to hold aloof, chooses no isolation, shuns no duty, but is content, "we arrogate to ourselves the keeping of the American continent and every concept of our moral obligation. It is fine to idealize, but it is very practical to make sure our own house is in perfect order before we attempt the miracle of old-world stabilization."

COOLIDGE UPHOLDS LAW. In urging maintenance of law and order, Governor Coolidge defined the need of America as "a broader, firmer, deeper faith in people—a faith that men desire to do right, that the government is founded upon a righteousness which will endure." Senator Harding said:

The first flaming torch of Americanism was lighted in 1776. The Pilgrims signed their simple and majestic covenant a full century and a half before, and set a standard of freedom on the coast of Massachusetts. Other pioneers of new world freedom were rearing their new standards of liberty from Jamestown and Plymouth for five generations before Lexington and Concord heralded a new era.

It was all Americanism in the midst of the world, the ideal of America was set out in the declaration of independence and adopted in the constitution. They did not represent perfection, but perfection was freedom. The fathers knew this was not yet apprehended. They formed a government firm in the faith that it was ever to press forward to this high mark.

WOULD GUARD RIGHTS. Americanism really began when, robed in nationality, the American republic began the biased trail of representative popular government. Representing a true democracy was proclaimed the safe agency of highest human freedom. America headed the forward procession of civil, human and religious liberty, which ultimately will effect the liberation of all mankind. The federal constitution is the very base of all Americanism, the ark of the covenant of American liberty, the very temple of equal rights. The constitution does abide and ever will so long as the republic survives. Let us not hesitate before we surrender the nationality which is the very soul of highest Americanism. This republic has never failed humanity, nor endangered civilization.

We have been tardy sometimes, like when we were proclaiming democracy and neutrality while we ignored our duties, rights, but the ultimate and helpful part we played in the great war will be the pride of America so long as the world recites the story.

We do not mean to hold aloof. We choose no isolation. We shun no duty. I like to rejoice in an American conscience, and in a big conception of our obligations to liberty, justice and civilization. Aye, and more, I like to think of Columbia's helping hand to new republics which are seeking the blessings portrayed in our example, but I have a confidence in our America that requires no council of foreign powers to point the way of American duty. We want to counsel, cooperate and contribute, but we arrogate to ourselves the keeping of the American continent and every concept of our moral obligation. It is fine to idealize, but it is very practical to make sure our own house is in perfect order before we attempt the miracle of old-world stabilization.

PLACES AMERICA FIRST. Call it the selfishness of nationality if you will. I think it an inspiration to patriotic devotion. To safeguard it, we must first. To stabilize America first. To prosper America first. To think of America first. To exalt America first. To live for and serve America first.

Let the Internationalists dream and the Bolshevists destroy. God pity him for whom no minstrel raptures swell the hymn of liberty. In the spirit of the republic we proclaim Americanism and acclaim America.

"The first duty of a government is to be true to itself," said Governor Coolidge. "This does not mean perfection. It means loyalty to itself. The ideals of America were set out in the declaration of independence and adopted in the constitution. They did not represent perfection, but perfection was freedom. The fathers knew this was not yet apprehended. They formed a government firm in the faith that it was ever to press forward to this high mark."

U.S. MARINES
SLA HAITIAN
BADIT CHIEFS

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TRIBUNE. KINGSTON, Jamaica, June 30.—Bandits have been Port au Prince, the Haitian capital, according to passengers arriving here from the city. Several killings were reported by the landing party. United States Marines restored order after killing the leaders of the band.

It is reported that a secret effort to overthrow a president of the Haitian republic is being directed from abroad. Revolutionary sympathizers, however, are said to be in fear of American vigilance on the island.

The terms of a lease have seal our lips for over 20 years—but we may tell tomorrow.
